MOVING PICTURE PARADE A GREAT SUCCESS-TAGGART

Splendid Turnout Marches in Front of Camera and Puts La Crosse on the Map

HUNDREDS PARTICIPATE IN EVENT

CHILDREN IN ANIMATED COLUMN

Andre's band shattered the atmosphere with the enthusiastic strains as Secretary Harry Taggart (Tim Toolin) marshalled the forces of the biggest procession that ever marched in the streets of La Crosse, and as a result fifteen hundred feet of moving picture reels showing La Crosse from every civic angle were taken.

In addition moving pictures will be taken at the picnic grounds in Myrick park today where the hosts of the grocers and their patrons are holding the annual blowout. Also scenic pictures of natural attractions about La Crosse, and of institutions such as the postoffice, will be taken during the day.

With Eddie Fleis as his lieutenant, Secretary Taggart acted as the infantry squad on line of march, forming the parade at Market square, while E. H. Derr, Andrew Boyd, Dr. Dan McArthur, A. J. Flynn and Leigh Toland, all mounted, acted as marshals.

An Army of Children

L. B. Raymond and Moncena Dunn, who were given charge of the children's section, had from 600 to 1,000 young people in line, and they were the most animated part of the parade.

The length of the parade can only be estimated, as most of the sections fell out of the line of march at St. Joseph's cathedral, after passing the picture machine. Some idea of it may be derived from the fact that the automobile section was still passing through market square when the first car passed before the camera in front of the Majestic, showing that this section was more than nine blocks in length. For the parade to pass a given point required an hour and ten minutes.

CHILD SHOOTS SELF OWING TO SCOLDING

NEW YORK, July 30.—As little 12 year old Susan Langenegger lay on a cot in Amsterdam hospital today suffering from a bullet wound in her head, her mother hovered near and repeated over and over again that she loved the child. And though Susan was barely conscious the mother hoped that she might understand. Susan shot herself yesterday with a revolver after writing a note saying: "I know you like the two dogs better than you do me, you said so."

Susan may recover, but in that event she will be blind, the hospital physicians say.

Mrs. Langenegger said she had reproved Susan for whipping the two fox terriers, but said she loved the child and had not treated her cruelly.

BALKAN WAR COST OVER 350,000 LIVES

TURKS TO HOLD ADRIANOPLE

Adopt Defiant Tone and Refuse to Evacuate the Holy City

BUCHAREST, July 30.—A five days armistice was agreed upon this afternoon by the Balkan states, Bulgaria, Servia, Greece and Montenegro, agreeing. Within that time a peace conference will be held by the delegates gathered here.

LONDON, July 30.—The Balkan wars, beginning when the allies attacked Turkey and continuing when they disagreed among themselves, causing almost ceaseless fighting since last October, have cost the belligerents a total of more than 350,000 lives and a billion and a quarter dollars, according to estimates by correspondents in the field.

ADRIANOPLE, July 30.—Apparently encouraged by the delay of the powers in taking steps to coerce Turkey, the Ottomans have taken on a defiant tone and declare they will never evacuate the recaptured holy city.

Enver Bey, commander of the moslem troops who repossessed Adrianople today said:

"Let Europe understand once and for all time that we will never give up Adrianople. The army is resolved to hold the city or die to the last man."

URGES U. S. RAILWAY

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Construction of a government railroad in Alaska is the way to break the Alaska "railroad trust," Delegate Wickersham of Alaska today told the house territories committee. J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Guggenheim Brothers, Wickersham declared, control every mile of railroad in the territory; are partners in a "geitlemen's agreement" of operation; are managers of a "wharf trust" and have defied all attempts of the government to curb them.

SOLONS AFTER SULZER

ALBANY, N. Y., July 30.—The New York legislature 'came back" at Governor Sulzer today and in an attempt to show that he was guilty of violating the corrupt practices act a special committee took up an inquiry into the report made by the governor on his campaign contributors. A check for $2,500 from Jacob Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., was introduced in evidence as having been contributed to the Sulzer fund, but was not included in the report filed by the governor.

BUFFALO GETS EPWORTH MEET

INDIANAPOLIS, July 30.—Buffalo, N. Y., was awarded the next meeting, July 15, 1914, of the quadrennial convention of the Epworth league of the world.

BLAME WIRELESS FOR BIG DROUTH

NEW YORK, July 30.—Six weeks ago the new wireless experimental station at Sayville, L. I., began working, the other end of the line being in Germany, and for six weeks Sayville has experienced a drouth. It has rained all around Sayville and in the last 48 hours New York has been twice deluged, once with a record rainfall.

Truck gardeners at Sayville blame their localized drouth on the wireless and today were considering sending a protest to Washington. They insist that the wireless plant absorbs all the moisture in the air and prevents precipitation.

SUSPECT MONKEY AS JEWEL THIEF

Narragansett $250,000 Robbery Leaves No Clue to Identity or Methods Used

THINK OF GRIND-ORGAN MAN

Suggested that Musician's Trained Simian May Have Been Actual Thief

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 30.—While private detectives searched for some clue that might lead to an arrest in connection with the theft of jewelry from summer colonists here, the aggregate value of which may reach $250,000, society folk today forgot social engagements and the gowns they had worn last as they discussed the greatest mystery that has ever visited this exclusive section.

Monkey Suspected

All that was needed to throw the social colony into a complete panic was the appearance of a monkey on a string. Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, today could not recall a single incident that might aid the detectives in tracing her missing jewels valued at least at $75,000, except that a man with a monkey played on his grind organ outside of her cottage last Saturday. C. C. Tegethoff, agent of the Harriman estate in New York, has suggested that this man may have been spying about the house, and that the monkey was the actual thief.

But few jewels were in evidence here today. There has been a rush to send family heirlooms and other pieces of value to places of safety in deposit vaults.

Hanan Home Robbed

The sensation caused by the report that Mr. Rumsey had been robbed of all her jewelry, including the rope of pearls given her by her mother and valued at $60,000, was increased when it became known that the cottage of John H. Hanan of New York, had also been entered. Between forty and fifty pieces of jewelry belonging to Mrs. Hanan were taken. They were worth $150,000.

Saturday night a necklace valued at $2,000 was taken from the cottage of Edward Douglas Pierce of Providence. The necklace belonged to Mrs. Walter Ives of New York, who, with her husband, was a guest at the Pierce cottage.

All of the robberies are surrounded with mystery. No one knows how the thief entered the houses, no one saw the robber and he left no trail that would indicate how entrance was gained to the house, or which way he fled. Hanan is ill at his cottage and Mrs. Hanan, five servants and a nurse were in the house when the robbery occurred. Mrs. Hanan's personal maid was out of the room less than 25 minutes, but when she returned the room had been entered and the jewels were gone.

BRYAN MEDIATOR

WASHINGTON, July 30.—In hopes of striking common ground on which the conservatives and "insurgents" of the house banking committee may meet in handling the currency bill, Secretary of State Bryan has been appealed to by both sides, it became known today.

TO REPRESENT WISCONSIN

MILWAUKEE, July 30.—Miss Alice Curtis, Milwaukee; Miss Ada James, Richland Center, and Mrs. B. C. Gudden, Oshkosh, will represent Wisconsin in the big suffrage demonstration tomorrow. Sufragetists from all parts of the United States will take part in the pageant.

DOROTHY GRUPP DEAD

Dorothy, the eight months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Grupp, 123 South Seventh street, died at one of the local hospitals this morning of a complication of diseases. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet.

THIRD MAD DOG SHOT BY POLICE

What is believed to be the third mad dog within a few days in La Crosse was shot by the police this morning.

The animal, a fox terrier, belonged to Oluf Erickson, 1032 Redfield street and this morning developed symptoms of the disease. Frothing at the mouth it tore around the streets in the vicinity of the Erickson home. Residents there notified the police. After a search it was found near St. Mary's church on South Seventh street, and killed.

Officials and doctors again urge upon La Crosse people the necessity of confining their dogs to their own yards. "Warn children not to pet strange dogs," is the advice of those experienced.

The police department has issued no order to muzzle dogs but may, if conditions warrant later, it is said.

MRS. ASTOR BACK FOR SOCIAL BATTLE

NEW YORK, July 30.—With the arrival here today of Mrs. John Astor, the first wife of Col. John Jacob Astor, who went down on the Titanic, society leaders looked forward to the staging of the first skirmish in the battle for the social leadership of the east at Newport. She was met at the pier by her son Vincent. She was accompanied here by her daughter Muriel. Mrs. Astor crossed on the Olympic, sister ship of the Titanic.

The three innermost society circles now led by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, were probably more stirred today than they have been in years with the arrival of Mrs. Astor. It is understood that Mrs. Astor will go direct to Newport, where the great social struggle will take place.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Eighteen deaths within 24 hours, half a hundred prostration and new high temperature records for 1913—these marked the advent of the hot wave that grips the west and middle west today.

In Chicago, where the newest torrid spell sent the mercury to 99, breaking the season record, a cool breeze blowing off the lake brought relief during the night, but at daybreak the thermometer showed the temperature mounting again with the probability that it will reach 100 today. At Peoria, Ill., where a kiosk in the downtown district registered 109 degrees yesterday, the hot dry weather would result in temperature approaching 90 early today.

Many Over 100

Clay Center, Kas., claimant to the title of the "hottest city" reported a maximum temperature of 107. Cities all over the west reported readings in excess of 100.

The Chicago grain pit was tense with excitement before the opening hour today. For two weeks brokers have felt that a return of the hot dry weather would result in immense damage to the crop in the western states. The start of the hot spell caused an excited flurry that sent prices up from two to three cents yesterday. Leading houses predicted a rush to buy corn today that will sweep the bears off their feet.

Sun Withers Crops

The same condition was reported at Kansas City and to some extent at other grain centers. The sun is withering crops to an alarming extent and in some localities the damage has been permanent.

The weather bureau this afternoon promised relief for the west and middle west before tomorrow night. Showers over nearly the entire country from Illinois to the Rockies are predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

RUBE BENTON HURT

CINCINNATI, O., July 30.—Rube Benton, Red pitcher, was in the city hospital as the result of an accident last night, in which he crashed into a street car while riding his motorcycle. Examination showed he suffered a broken jaw.

DARING THIEF SNATCHES MONEY

One of the Boldest Highway Robberies in Recent Years Occrs on North Side Tuesday

CLEVER WORK BY POLICE FORCE

Crook Had Three Changes of Clothes but Is Landed in Jail Three Hours After Stealing Big Sum

One of the most daring cases of highway robbery that has occurred in La Crosse in recent years happened at the Goddard hotel on the north side at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a man giving the name of Harry Fischer, St. Paul, Minn., snatched $80 in Canadian money from James Fee, aged 61 years, a native to Toronto, Can.

Three hours later the man was resting in the police station, the result of clever work on the part of the La Crosse police department.

Had Three Changes

That the man is an expert crook is indicated by the fact that he was equipped with three complete changes of clothes and had changed outfits twice before apprehended on the north side by Patrolman William Wermuth.

Aged Mr. Fee was counting his money in the office of the Goddard hotel. It was all in bills. Fischer, it is alleged, was loitering near and at an opportune time, when the office was deserted, snatched the roll of bills from the old man and dashed through the door.

Mr. Fee immediately shouted for help and for a few minutes there was an exciting chase in the vicinity of Grand Crossing. The thief outdistanced his pursuers, however, and disappeared.

The police station was notified and Chief John Webber and Detective Fitzsimmons made a flying trip in the department auto to the north side. All trace of the thief was lost.

Anticipating that the robber would attempt to exchange the Canadian money for notes of the United States Chief Webber sent out a general call to all officers to watch for a man changing Canadian money and to pay particular attention to the express offices.

It was soon after this that Patrolman Wermuth entered his brother's saloon at 138 North Third street. The man had been in there but a few minutes before and receiving a minute description of him the patrolman started after his man. He found him on Main street and the arrest was made.

Hold Passenger Train

Burlington passenger train No. 77 pulled out of the Grand Crossing yards soon after the robbery and it was first thought that the man made his get-away on it.

The train was stopped at Onalaska and Trempealeau and searched. At Winona it was held for several minutes while policemen of the up river city went through for the crook.

Claims to be Laborer

At the station the man gave his residence at St. Paul but gave no address. He claims to be a laborer but this is scouted by the police who maintain his "quick change" outfit belies the laboring man story.

He will be held for several days while the police communicate with other cities in an effort to get his record.

SIGNS MONEY BILL

MADISON, Wis., July 30.—Late yesterday afternoon Governor McGovern signed the departmental bill carrying appropriations of over $5,000,000 for the biennial period. The bill was laid before the governor yesterday afternoon. He had made a previous examination of it and gave his official signature immediately. The signing of the bill will hasten the payment of employes of the state, who could not be paid this month until the bill had become a law.

SAY T. R. GATHERS ROUGH RIDERS TO INVADE MEXICO

AUSTIN, Texas, July 30.—That Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has quietly organized four regiments of rough riders, drawing his recruits from the trained riders and marksmen of Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas, is the information received by Gov. Colquitt from what purports to be reliable sources.

The alleged reason assigned for the organization of such a force is that the colonel wanted to be prepared to enter Mexico in case of intervention.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—"If T. Roosevelt is raising a brigade of rough riders with the consent of the war department with which to invade Mexico," the war department is greatly surprised. Officials said so today. It was pointed out that one little thing that stood in the way of any such action was the necessity of having congressional sanction.

RICHARD'S BRIDE GIVEN $100,000

CHICAGO, July 30.—With a check for $100,000 still pinned to a rose stem where she found it, Mrs. Archibald Richards, who was Miss Esther Stewart of Aurora, Ill., until her marriage last night, started on a honeymoon trip today.

The check was a gift from John Stewart, multimillionaire lumberman of Aurora, and grandfather of the bride. He sent it concealed in a big bouquet of American beauties.

The bridegroom is the son of the general claim agent for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad.

MEXICAN SLOTH MAY HALT PEACE

Administration's OnlyWordy in Situation Is that They May Delay Too Long

HUERTA CAN'T BE CANDIDATE

Present Ruler Debarred by Constitution from Presidential Race; Diaz Still Factor

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The administration has no word from Mexico today regarding the progress of the suggested peace movement there. Only unofficial information regarding this scheme has reached the state department. But Secretary Bryan is hopeful that the plan will be successful. Until it has been tried neither he nor the president will make any further moves. The very fact that the secretary is considering resuming his Chautauquaing the latter part of the week, and that the president may make a brief trip out of town demonstrates that the administration does not consider the Mexican situation acute.

Mexicans Too Slow

The chief danger in the situation is in the possibility of a sudden outbreak against foreigners and the movements of the Mexicans themselves. While it is made plain that leaders of the better class of Mexicans are demanding that the factions get together and establish peace they are proceeding with exasperating, although perfectly natural slowness. And this fact may finally exasperate outside interests and complicate matters.

Huerta Is Barred

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 30.—General Felix Diaz will be a candidate for president of Mexico at the regular elections next fall. General Vivtoriano Huerta is debarred by the constitution from becoming a candidate.

Referring to his statement that Huerta could not be a candidate for re-election, Diaz said: Huerta will not be a candidate because the constitution forbids him. The constitution says no president shall run for re-election until after one term elapses after his occupancy of the president's chair.

This what General Diaz himself said today before leaving for Los Angeles. He is on his way to Japan on a special mission for the Huerta government.

General Diaz ridiculed the report that his mission was to make concessions to the Japanese government whereby 50,000 Japanese could colonize on the Western coast of Mexico. He said its sole purpose was to thank the Mikado for Japan's participation in the Mexican centenary in 1910 and to arrange better trade relations.

Federals Victorious

MEXICO CITY, via Galveston, July 30.—Reports of a battle in Sonora, in which the federals put the rebels to complete rout, were received here today by private wireless from Guaymas, on the west coast. The government has not reported the engagement, and nothing official is known here.

GET LICENSE TO WED

A wedding license was granted this morning to Otto Pokarts, aged 30, to marry Rosa Bielinski, aged 27, both of La Crosse.

EVELYN REFUSES NAME OF THAW

NEW YORK, July 30.—Delighted at the prospects of appearing on the stage again in this country for the first time since the shooting of Stanford White and the sensational trials that followed, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw arrived here today from London, where she has been appearing with Jack Clifford in a dancing act. When told that she was being advertised on the bill-boards under the name of Thaw, the young woman who played such a big part in the trials of Harry K. Thaw for murder, declared she would not appear unless the name was taken off.

ORDER ON VIADUCT WILL BE MODIFIED SAYS COMMISSION

Rehearing of Rose Street Controversy Ordered to Make This Possible, Says John Roemer

ACTION ENTIRELY VOLUNTARY

State Official Says No Petition Was Filed by City, but Report of Engineer Shows Needed Change

ROEMER COMING TO LA CROSSE

Announced Today that He Will Be Here August 11 to Go Over Various Theories on Matter

The Wisconsin rate commission wishes to modify its original order in connection with the Rose street viaduct controversy.

To do so, under the law, it is necessary to order a rehearing. This was the announcement today of the railroad commission to city officials.

The date set for the hearing is August 11 at the city hall here and the conference of railroad, city and street railway officials will be attended by John H. Roemer, member of the railroad commission of Wisconsin.

The news that the commission wishes to change its original order is taken as nothing short of a victory for the city. The only modification that could be made, according to local officials, would be a new order apportioning the expense of the new viaduct—or whatever means of crossing may be decided upon—more equitably between the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad and the city of La Crosse.

Division Not Just

The original order, claimed City Engineer George Bradish and others, gave the railroad company the short end of the expense while the city's was far greater than it could afford.

At the meeting on August 11 it is probable that all phases of the crossing trouble will be threshed out. Viaducts, subways and various other brands of brossings will be discussed as will be the relative merits of Mill and Rose streets as crossing points.

The City of La Crosse filed no petition for a rehearing of the matter the rehearing being necessary under the law to change the order of the commission.

FLIES TO WORK

CHICAGO, July 30.—Harold F. McCormack, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller broke into page 1 as first aero commuter. McCormack flew down the lake from Lake Forest, Ill., in his new flying boat today landed off Grant Park and a few minutes later was at his desk. He announced that his automobile will be "junked."

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Drastic punishment for any bank which enters into any agreement to depreciate the value of the U. S. two per cent bonds, was provided in a bill introduced by Senator Lewis of Illinois this afternoon.

SCARED PACHYDERMS DEMOLISH CIRCUS

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—Half of the Sells-Floto circus was wrecked this morning, when a fierce electrical storm so affected the circus elephants that they went on o wild rampage. After breaking loose from their keepers, the big animals tore canvas from many of the tents, smased the main entrance and went through the smaller buildings in the neighborhood, reducing them to match wood. Returning they broke into the main tent and reduced the seats to splinters. The entire working force of the circus, wielding pitchforks and other weapons, was required to subdue the elephants.

The Royal Family of Russia

The perpetuation of the power of the most powerful royal family on the face of the earth, the Romanoffs, rulers of Russia, is dependent on the life of the little czarevitch, who is very sickly. All the other children of the czar are girls, and are by law barred from the throne.

This is the first photograph of the Russian royal family taken in several years, and it is one of the few permitted of the little czarevitch. A year ago he met with a mysterious accident, and since then it has been necessary most of the time for an attendant to carry him about. Nothing has been done to satisfy the public as to the character of the accident. The royal family has been very secretive about it.

FIND ADIEU FROM "CHRISTMAS SHIP"

STURGEON BAY, Wis., July 30.—A message purporting to be a farewell from the schooner Rouse Simmons, written on a piece of paper and preserved in a bottle, was found on the lake shore near Whitefish Bay by a son of Frank Lauscher, a fisherman, yesterday. The message follows:

Nov. 23, 1912.—These lines were written at 10:30 p. m., schooner Rouse Simmons ready to go down about twenty miles southeast of Twin River Point, between fifteen and twenty miles off shore. All hands lashed to the line. Goodbye.

CAPT. CHAS. NELSON.

The boy was playing on the beach when he picked up the bottle. The last message from the victims of the fatal voyage was written plainly on the torn slip.

HEAT CAUSES WELLS TO LOSE IDENTITY

NEW YORK, July 30.—Frederick B. Wells, president of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, had fully recovered today from an attack of asphasia and heat prostration he suffered yesterday. Wells' mind was absolutely blank as to how he got on the street from his room at the Waldorf-Astoria, where he was stopping with his brother Thomas and his 12-year-old son. When picked up by the police he was hatless and coatless and until he had been treated at St. Vincent's hospital could not give his name.

London's militants may be depended on to give Mrs. Pankhurst an even more enthusiastic funeral than Miss Davidson's.

FACE BROKE OUT IN LITTLE PIMPLES

Red and Sore. Like Little Boils. Would Wake Up At Night and Scratch. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Three Weeks.

Falls City, Neb. — "My trouble began when I was about sixteen. My face broke out in little pimples at first. They were red and sore and then became like little boils. I picked at my face continually and it made my face red and sore looking and then I would wake up at night and scratch it. It was a source of continual annoyance to me, as my face was always red and splotched and burned all the time.

"I tried ——, —— and others, but I could find nothing to cure it. I had been troubled about two years before I found Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and tried them and I then bought some. I washed my face good with the Cuticura Soap and hot water at night and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In the morning I washed it off with the Cuticura Soap and hot water. In two days I noticed a decided improvement, while in three weeks the cure was complete." (Signed) Judd Knowles, Jan. 10, 1913.

It costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexions, red, rough hands, itching scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. Although sold everywhere, sample of each will be mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

THE TRAGIC CLOWN

By JANE OSBORN.

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It was "Boost Week" in Fays Corners. There were flags flying and bunting swaying in the breeze along the main street. A pair of plaster of Paris figures had been set up on two of the "four corners," the shrill whistle of the peanut and popcorn stand was in the air, badge and button venders had set up their stands on the curb and the streets were crowded.

The focus of the excitement centered on Fays Corners commons, a green park of two or three acres in the center of the town. Here a tent had been set up and a temporary reviewing stand, and already baby carriages were gathering in anticipation of the great event. As an opening feature of the boost week performance there was to be a baby parade. This was the idea of Silas Stebbins, the leading banker of Fays Corners, who had purchased an array of silver mugs and silver spoons and silver napkin rings as prizes for the winning specimens of babyhood.

The judges—the three prettiest girls in Fays Corners—had arrived betimes and were sitting in the "reviewing stand." One of them—the little dark-eyed one—was Mardy, Silas Stebbins' daughter. She felt herself to be the happiest girl in the world to have a father who could provide so luxuriously for his fellow townsmen. It seemed as if there never was such an event in Fays Corners.

She grew impatient waiting for the parade to begin, so she left her fellow judges and walked down the commons to the tent to see how the plans for the afternoon were progressing. There was to be a great surprise which she and her father had planned for the amusement of the small boys and girls of the place. There were to be free ice-cream cones for all the children and there was to be a real clown. Mardy had hardly been able to keep this great surprise from the other judges—her chums.

She had reached the tent and was just going in to see whether the ice-cream cone man had arrived when she saw coming toward her the clown. He was dressed in the bloomer-shaped white duck trousers, flaring white coat, enormous white shoes and white gloves. His face was painted white with red cheeks and triangle eyes—just the sort of clown that Mardy had seen at the circus and hoped would come. He walked toward her with painful strides, holding his hands uncomfortably from him and tripping over the large, clumsy shoes. Something in his very gestures was irresistibly funny.

The clown took a step toward Mardy and doffed his hat with one large gloved hand and bowed. Then, with an accent that struck Mardy as being one of untold richness, he said: "Oh, good day, am I really at all funny?"

Mardy had but to look at him again to go off into another ripple of laughter.

"It is such a relief to think I am funny," said the clown.

"Aren't you always funny?"

"Oh, my, no," said the clown; "this is the first time. That is why I feel so nervous about it—" He stopped short. "Perhaps I shouldn't have said anything about it; only when you laughed I thought perhaps you could help me. You see, I know so little about clowns, never watched one long enough to know what to do. But, you see, when the gentleman here—the banker—sent in to the city to the theatrical agency that he wanted a clown and had to have it by today, why all the clowns they had on the books were busy, and I happened to be in at the time and all there was for me to do was to take the assignment. So I went to the costumer's and got the costume. And here I am. But don't you say anything about this to the banker, if you happen to know him, about my not being a bona fide clown. That is between me and the agency entirely. But, I say, do you mind telling me what I did just now that made you laugh? I want to do it again, and if you know anything that clowns usually do, will you please tell me."

"Oh, you are so very funny," said Mardy, laughing again, "just the way you talk and walk, and—"

"Thank you, really," said the clown. "I didn't realize it."

"You might have a little snake on a string," suggested Mardy, recalling the antics of the clown at the circus she had seen. "You tie the snake to your foot with a string and then it follows you and you pretend to be afraid and the harder you run the faster it follows you. I have a paper snake I would let you have."

"Thanks, awfully," said the clown with feeling.

"And then you must try to do what other people are doing. You could pretend to wheel a baby carriage when the baby parade begins. You could have a wheel-barrow with a pig in it for the baby. I think I could lend you one of our wheelbarrows and one of our little pigs, and after that you can come up on the grandstand and pretend to help the judges to pick out the best baby."

Mardy, full of her secret, hurried home and returned with the paper snake, and her father's hired man bringing a wheel-barrow and the small pig. Then with a little rehearsing inside the tent Mardy showed the serious-minded clown how to manipulate the pig and the snake in true clown style.

Mardy hurried to the reviewing stand and forgot the clown and his secret in the serious duty of reviewing babies. Once or twice the uproarious laughter of the people, gathered in the commons, recalled to Mardy the presence of the clown and she knew that he was making a hit.

After the babies had been wheeled around before the judges once, the laughter turned into shouts of applause, and Mardy looked about to see all eyes on the clown who was coming two steps at a time into the reviewing stand with the paper snake at his heels. He sat down beside her and pretended to give her pointers about the various babies.

Then he whispered to her in impressive tones: "I have made a great success, and I have you to thank for it, and they—the people who have charge of the week here—have asked me to stay and be a part of the whole thing, to take part as I have today in all the different features."

Then the clown hurried back to the ground and went through his antics, leaving Mardy impressed with the deep, cultivated tones of his voice, so strangely unlike the foolish exterior.

For a week the clown remained in Fays Corners, always bringing a laugh wherever he went.

The last day of the boost week—when the town was strewn with confetti of the final carnival night and Mardy was sitting alone on her front porch waiting for her father to come home and tell her all the events of the day—a tall, straight, sober-faced, clean-shaven young man stepped up the front steps and walked toward her.

"I am going back to the city," he said, and then Mardy knew that it was her clown. "But before I go I want to thank you. You see I am a poor actor. I have always gone in for tragic parts. That was my ambition, but when I had a chance to make a little money being a clown I didn't hesitate to do it. Now I have made a hit in comedy—you showed me how and before I go I want to ask you—" The clown hesitated and then went on. "I have been watching you all the week and I have grown to like you better each time I looked at you. I feel I need your inspiration. You showed me how to be a success. With you to help me and show me I think I might some day become a great comedian. Anyway, I want you to promise to give me a chance to win your love."

And Mardy, because she had always dreamed in her secluded little corner in Fays Corners of the glitter of the footlights, and because from the first day that she had heard the clown's voice on the town commons she had felt drawn to its owner, told the clown that she would promise.

His Turn Coming.

"What are you going to do when you grow up, if you don't know how to read, write and cipher?" asked a school teacher of a lazy, stupid boy. "I'm going to be a schoolmaster, and make the boys do all the readin', writin' and cipherin'," replied the bov.

The Club Has Tea Parties.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Little Girls' Club Has a Picnic.

JACK had joined a little boys' club and was very proud of it.

"Why can't little girls have clubs?" Evelyn had asked enviously.

"They can if they wish," daddy had answered. "In fact, one of the most flourishing clubs I know is a little girls' club.

"I suppose I really ought not to call the members little girls, for they would not like it. Even Ruthie, who is seven and the youngest member, thinks she is quite a grownup person.

"Hannah, who is president of the club, is a model of good behavior. I wish I could say as much for Ruthie, who, by the way, is Hannah's sister. It is so hard to sit still and be quiet in club meetings when one is only seven! And then it is such fun to tease the older girls. Ruthie has been behaving beautifully since the club made her sergeant-at-arms. It is the duty of a sergeant-at-arms, you know, to make every one else be quiet.

"Every week the little girls meet at the house of a different member. Sometimes they read stories, sometimes they talk, sometimes they make doll clothes or have little tea parties.

"The little girls pay a membership fee of 2 pennies a week. Elsa, who is secretary and treasurer, takes care of the money until they have enough for some kind of a treat.

"Last week they had a picnic in Bronx park. Of course the little girls couldn't go to Bronx park all by themselves. But it was the picnic that showed them how useful it is to have an honorary member. Hannah and Ruthie's papa is an honorary member of the club. It is only when he comes to the meetings that the sergeant-at-arms has anything to do. There are times when he does cut up a lot.

"When the picnic at Bronx park was first talked of the little girls wondered who would take them. Then Ruthie thought of her papa. So the president named Ruthie and another little girl a committee to ask him to go with them.

"Ruthie's papa said of course he would go with them.

"So it was all settled, and on the first holiday he had they went to the park to spend the whole day instead of the afternoon.

"They took their luncheon with them, and out of the club fund they had spending money and enough for a ride in the park boat. There were games played on the grass, and when he went back to his office the next day Ruthie's papa told the people there all about it. So you can understand how daddy was fortunate enough to learn about it."

WILL WOMEN VOTE FOR HANDSOME MEN

"Uncle Joe" Cannon is firmly convinced that the voting women of Illinois will select the handsomest man who is running for the political offices which they have a voice in filling.

"Uncle Joe" may think he knows women. Perhaps he does know the woman of a generation ago, but he certainly does not know the woman of today or he would not make such a rash prediction.

The keen, businesslike woman who is rapidly forging to the front as the prevailing type of American femininity is not nearly as likely to be fooled by mere good looks as her grandmother was. In her personal progress to a thinking individual she has thrown off some of the womanish characteristics and has become, in her intellectual attitude at least, somewhat masculine. Men, as most of them will testify, not only have an instinctive distrust of the very handsome members of their own sex, but very often entertain a positive dislike for them that only concrete evidence that they are "good fellows" in spite of their good looks can remove. Women educated to look beneath the surface, even while appreciating an attractive exterior in itself, demand that the handsome appearance be backed up by more solid accomplishments.

The fiction that the handsome man can wreck hearts according to his own sweet will dies hard, possibly because it is so easy to believe it if we take a few isolated examples. Looking at the relations of the sexes in a broad way, however, it can be seen that plain and even homely men manage to get along with women quite as well as do their handsomer brothers. In fact, it sometimes seems that the feminine beauties more often go to men of rugged appearance—real homely chaps—than to those with superlatively good looks. The first duke of Marlborough, the great English soldier, has come down in history as the homeliest man in the England of his day, yet he swayed men and women alike by sheer force of personal charm. Smallpox had made Mirabeau look like a gorgoyle, but the power he exerted over women once got him out of prison and stood him in good stead all his life.

Some women in the suffrage states will vote for the handsomest man, but the greater number will recall the old adage, "handsome is what handsome does."

PETTY NAGGING OF A WORTHY STATESMAN

It was inevitable that when La Follette's Magazine defended Mr. Bryan's chautauqua expedition the reactionary press should insist that therein Senator La Follette, also of chautauqua fame, was speaking one word for the Nebraskan and two for himself. It matters not to these papers that the Wisconsin senator has set such unusual examples of integrity—precedents, by the way—as declining to cast a vote upon a matter in which he was even remotely interested as an individual. Nor did it matter that La Follette's defense of Mr. Bryan is conclusive, that it annihilates the adverse critics of the secretary of state. The argument wastes no words; it is contained complete in the following paragraphs:

"Secretary Bryan is the subject of a violent outburst of criticism because he is filling a number of lecture engagements contracted for before he became a member of President Wilson's cabinet.

"The country has confidence in the integrity of Mr. Bryan and it is not ready to believe that he will cheat the government on his services. To do his work as secretary he ought to take some time for recreation from the onerous and exacting duties of his great office. Every president and every cabinet officer leaves Washington for a few weeks during the heated term. One goes to Oyster Bay, another to Berkeley, another to Cornish, another to Yellowstone Park, another to the seashore.

"Mr. Bryan goes to the Chautauqua platform. It is his recreation. It is no discredit to him that he finds vast audiences eager to pay to hear his inspiring oratory. His lectures are not partisan. He is a great preacher. Every man and woman, boy and girl who hears him is the better for it.

"He is entitled to spend his vacation time as best suits him. He will not neglect the duties of his important office for any personal advantage."

In a word, for having planned to spend his vacation by working in the cities rather than playing on some beach, Mr. Bryan subjects himself to the charge that he is a wicked and slothful servant.

Sixty-four bible schools have been opened in Philadelphia. If it was in Chicago the ward bosses would license them for revenue.

Some men grow better by comparing themselves with better men while others improve through new police regulations.

Amusement In Pauses

Dr. P. S. Henson once delivered his lecture on "Fools" at the New York Chautauqua. In introducing him, Bishop Vincent said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are now to listen to a lecture on 'Fools,' by one"—the audience broke into a roar of laughter and after it had died away Bishop Vincent added—"of the most brilliant men in America."

Dr. Henson rose and, with a genial smile, said: "Ladies and gentlemen. I am not so great a fool as Bishop Vincent"—another roar of laughter, after which the speaker added—"would make you believe."—Judge.

Would Give the Signal

Poor little Potts strained his head in vain endeavor to see the stage. The immobile back and great head of the man in front of him completely hid his view.

By a most uncomfortable contortion he just managed to see some scenery occasionally by peeping over the man's shoulder. Suddenly the big man turned. "What's the matter, matey; can't you see anything?" he asked.

"Can't even see a streak of the stage through you," murmured little Potts, pathetically.

The big man grinned sarcastically.

"Ah, well, son, just keep your eye on me and laugh when I do."

The Fatal Day Was Near

"Charles seems to be very exacting," said a fond mamma to the dear girl who was dressing for the wedding.

"Never mind, mamma," said she sweetly. "They are his last wishes."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Against the Recall

Mike—Do yez believe in the recall of judges, Pat.

Pat—That I do not. The last time I was up before his honor he sez: "I recall that face. Sixty days." Am agin the recall of judges.—Life.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

A Wanderer's Song

Once more to see familiar stars
Look down through friendly trees—
Once more to feel the heart of youth
With May across the seas!
Once more to see the hyacinth
Press upward through the grass.
To hear the plowboy's tuneless song
Above the furrows pass.
In dreams the willows silver along the rising streams,
In dreams the shining valley puts on her spring tide gleams!

Once more to breathe the lilac plumes
In gusts of April rain—
To linger with the violets
In a forgotten lane; * * *

I'd give the dawns of almond bloom,
The orange and the rose—
The misty olive terraces
Of shadowy repose—
I'd give the nightingale and palm
And wander-joys like these—
Just to go back to spring's old throb
And old infinities.
In dreams my heart is straying with
May across the seas.
In dreams my heart and May are one in vagrant ecstasies!
—Martha Gilbert Dickinson Bianchi

Freshies

"Ah!" said the visitor in the college town, noticing the long file of young men prarading about the campus. "Some raw recruits?"

"Yes and no," explains the resident. "They're what you might call rah-rah recruits."—Judge.

More Important

Mr. Dustin did not approve of his son's choice of a wife, and was trying to persuade him to see things as he did.

"Yes, you are quite right, father," said the son. "Mabel has her defects, she is vain, full of pretensions and grand ideas, with a very difficult character. But, father, in spite of all, I simply adore her. I can't live without her."

"But that is not the question, my boy," said the father. "Can you live with her?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Progress

Burglar—Last time you defended me you only charged me $40!

Lawyer—That was five years ago, when you were a struggling young burglar, Now that you have "arrived," you must pay more!

A Lingual Strain

A boy who had been absent from school for several days returned with his throat carefully and presented this note to his teacher:

"Please don't let my son learn any German today, his throat is so sore he can hardly speak English."—Everybody's Magazine.

Far Distant Feet

"I visited President Lincoln one day," said Gen. Wilson, "with my brother-in-law.

"A few days later I visited the president again with my brother-in-law, Senator Dixon of Connecticut, and a constituent of his who was 6 feet 10 inches tall. Well, we met and for the first and perhaps the only time in his life the president was flabbergasted by the sight of a man looking down on him by six inches.

"Finaly his face was overspread by that lovely smile of his and he said, 'My friend, will you permit me to ask you a question?'

"'Why, certainly, Mr. President,' the man answered.

"'I want to know,' said Mr. Lincoln, 'if you can tell when your feet get cold.'"

Retired Georgia Planter's Advice to Kidney Sufferers

Regarding the wonderful curative merits of your Swamp-Root, I cannot say too much. After suffering severely for three years or more with severe pains caused by weak kidneys, I was finally induced to try Swamp-Root through a testimonial I read in one of the newspapers. I was in such a condition that I was obliged to arise from my bed six or eight times every night. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and before it was used I felt so much relief that I purchased a one-dollar bottle and by the time this was taken the old pains had left my back and I could sleep the whole night through. I am a retired planter, 70 years of age, and owing to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, I am in the best of health and fell like a boy. I am always glad to recommend Swamp-Root to those who are in need of it.

Sincerely yours,

Miss Estrilla, expressionless behind her green shade, spoke in an even and unemotional voice.

"And what do your spirits say to you?"

"To me?" repiied Rosalie; "goodness, I don't know. I wish I did. That was always a curious thing about my mediumship. You see, there's every kind. Some folks are clairaudient. They hear things while they're wide awake. Some are clairvoyant in half trance. That means they see, an' they know all the time what they've seen and what they're sayin'. I'm the worst kind. I never could get a thing except in a full trance—jest like I was asleep. I have to find afterwards from other people what I said or did. Well, I'm as sorry as can be that I bothered you, an' won't do it again, if I can help it. Did I talk much?"

"Not a great deal. Something about a young man and a young woman.'

"Anybody in the house? Sometimes—they tell me—my spirits talk about folks a thousand miles away an' sometimes about folks that are right here."

Miss Estrilla seemed to be considering this. When she spoke, her voice was still even and perfectly controlled; but she did not answer the question.

"You have been very kind," she said, "and I don't see why you should tell any one else. You may come here whenever you feel that way. It would be a pleasure to return your kindness."

Rosalie sighed as in relief.

"My! That's good. I didn't want to ask—it's a lot to ask of anybody—but now you've offered, I'll take it. I've been thinkin' lately it would be a good thing to let go of myself when I feel it comin', an' get it off my system. Was that the bell? Excuse me—I ain't sure that lazy Molly will answer it. An' thank you, my dear."

The bell was only a pedler. When Rosalie had disposed of him, she consulted her watch. Much remained of the afternoon; and the house was still deserted.

"Good time to git an hour's session with that darned phonograph," she said; and she took refuge in her own big clothes-closet—which, experiment had shown, was soundproof.

CHAPTER X.
A Lone Hand.

Martin McGee waited to keep his latest appointment with Rosalie Le Grange on a bench in Stuyvesant Fish Park, dead center for the Hebrew population in New York. Before and behind him a regiment of children swarmed over horizontal bars or made loud play with park swings. On the benches to right and left sat a crowd of squalid loafers, most of whom would have shuffled away into the dives and alleys of the East Side had they known that this florid stalwart gentleman in the plain gray suit was a high police liceman. On the fringes of his vision Yiddish housewives bargained with push-cart pedlers. It was all very lively, very alien—and very odorous. Martin McGee speculated lazily and with some amusement upon the habits of Rosalie Le Grange—so much her own, yet so well conceived for her purposes. For example, this method of holding business conferences on secret affairs—for she always set her appointments in Stuyvesant Fish Park, or some other cut-of-the-way open space. It was a highly original, highly effective plan. One could enter without attracting attention; one could watch the approaches; a meeting in a public park—grant that it were discovered in such a remote part of the city—could be passed off as an accidental encounter, not a conference. That was one of the thousand ways in which her mind thought faster and further than his. He felt even a shade of jealousy as he dwelt upon her. With that ripple in the pool of his thoughts came another disturbed feeling. How was he to meet her after what had happened three days ago in the hallway of Mrs. Moore's old house? The thing had been an explosion of emotion, beyond control of will. Martin McGee did not put it so. "It got away with me" was how he expressed it to himself.

Martin McGee was approaching fifty, the second period of sentiment in man. In the lusty summer of his days, he had wooed—and lost. She had chosen the other arm of municipal warfare and married a fireman. Since then woman had cut but a shadowy figure in his bachelor life. And here, in his middle age, the face and figure, the form and move of a woman was playing hide-and-seek among his thoughts of police duty and police privilege. He recognized even a certain embarrassment over the coming meeting like that of a youth who has been slapped by a perky girl. Only one fact gave him satisfaction. Her cold withdrawal from him, her genuine indignation, settled finally—to his enchanted mind—certain surmises concerning one element in the character of Rosalie Le Grange. This, however, raised up a regiment of disturbing thoughts. She had been a professional medium; and a medium was a half-crook; it wasn't respectable. With the perverse yearning of one who has passed his life among disreputabilities, Martin McGee loved respectability in woman. And—

"How do you do?" said a voice beside him; and Rosalie's self settled down on the park bench.

He looked at her without rising, his first thought to read in those eyes of her, which mirrored so many emotions, her attitude toward him. The eyes were laughing!

"How do you do " he repeated after her. And then, as though he must be out with it:

"Say, I guess there's an apology coming from me."

"If there is," said Rosalie, "there is one coming from about every man I ever knew. It's the way of the animal. It's a kind of a left-handed compliment to the lady though."

Martin McGee, a little unaccustomed since his philandering days to the slender arrows of feminine attack, winced at this subtle variation of the common, "you're just like all the rest." It stuck full to the shaft; and in a tender and unInured spot.

"This was different," said he.

"So they all say!" said she. But she was smiling, and her expression, while it held amusement, was warm and mellow. "Now let's overlook little things. I've come to talk business. I'm busting with it." She glanced to right and left, taking in a faded "black hood" of a woman, a sodden "panhandler" of a man. "I guess we'd better walk," she said. They rose and threaded the push-carts, the crowds, the confusion and smells, toward the river.

"Now I'm playing a lone hand," she began. "If things go wrong, I've only myself to blame; an' if they go right, you get all the credit—as usual. I want help an' no questions asked. This Black-hand outfit of dago detectives—what have you got that you can lend me?"

"You want—"

"A detective from the dago squad. I want him straight an' I want him quick an' I want him for my own—he reports to me, not to you."

Proved Worth of Invention.

"Shortly after Galvani's invention came out he visited America, and with a latter of introduction called upon Dr. Doane, medical officer to the Bank of New York," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle. "He found the family in distress at the death of the infant son. Galvani asked to be allowed to try his battery; the child revived and was christened Galvani Doane. His father was a cousin of Longfellow."

Occasional Visitors

A story Harry Lauder told was about an old Scotch gamekeeper who was being questioned by a dather inquisitive visitor who paid occasional visits to the neighborhood, and wanted to know all about the size and value of the estate.

"Are there many deer on the place?" was one of his questions.

"Hundreds, sir!" was the gamekeeper's reply

"Many hares?" the other went on.

"Thousands, sir!" the gamekeeper answered.

"Is that so? Well, now; are there many gorillas?" the visitor asked satirically.

The gamekeeper hesitated for a moment, then he said:

"Well, sir; they—they come noo an' then—just like yersel'!"

Essay on the Human Hair.

Under the microscope human hair is a more or less complex and very variable tissue. In size, shape and masonry (it is a sort of concrete structure) as well as color there is more or less variation of detail. Architecturally curly hair differs from the straight variety; kinky hair has a special construction of its own which explains the kinks; there's a reason, apparent under the revealing eye of the microscope, for the black, red, silky, and all other varieties.

NORTH SIDE MAN CATCHES THIEF

FOSTER CHASES BURGLAR IN VAIN

Finds Man Trying to Break Into House But Is Unable to Catch Him

Lee B. Hampton, 1725 Wood street, a conductor on the Burlington railroad, foiled an attempt at petty robbery by William McLaughlin Monday morning when he tried to take two parasols from the back porch of Mr. Hampton's residence. Mr. Hampton caught and held the thief until his wife telephoned for the police.

Had it not been for the fact that Mr. Hampton is an early riser, McLaughlin would probably not have been caught. The man was noticed walking down Wood street at about 5:30. He knocked on the door of a neighbor, it is thought by the police, in the endeavor to beg food. Not finding anyone home, he walked to Mr. Hampton's residence. After making an inspection of the side and back yard he sat down on the back porch.

Mr. Hampton was watching him and when he took the two parasols ran out of the house and caught him.

A strange man attempted to force an entrance into the home of A. Foster, 1603 Charles street last night at 11 o'clock, but left when Mr. Foster bolted out of the front door of the house and ran after him.

The family had retired for the night just a few minutes, when Mrs. Foster was disturbed by a scratching noise on the screen door at the side of the house. Listening for a few minutes she distinctly heard someone breathing. She called her husband who investigated. On account of the warm night the doors and windows had been left open, although the screen door was hooked.

Mr. Foster made out the form of a man kneeling at the door, and ran to the front door. As he ran out in the yard the man ran, and although Mr. Foster chased him for a time, he was not caught. The police are looking for the man today.

NELSONS WIN IN ROW

TAKE SIXTH STRAIGHT VICTORY WHEN THEY DEFEAT GOLD BIRDS AT COPELAND PARK

The Nelsons defeated the Gold Birds by a 9 to 2 score last night in Copeland park, piling up the sixth straight game they have won in the senior branch of the indoor league. A crowd of over six hundred people witnessed the games. This is easily the largest crowd that has congregated in the park this season. Knutson and Clow for the Nelsons and Nonstad and Jahn for the Gold Birds made up the batteries.

The Mettin brothers, forming the battery for the Colts, pulled down a 13 to 4 victory over the Rubber Mills making the second performance of the evening. Casperson and Cohn handled the powder for the Rubber boys.

A sad feature of the night's performance was the slaughter of the Billikens, one of the north side favorites, by the Rangers, in a score of 14 to 1. Black and Laud for the Rangers and Frisch and Young for the Billikens made up the batteries.

OFFICIALS FROLIC AT ANNUAL PICNIC

HIGBEE FAILS TO MAKE TEAM

City Attorney Taken Out of Game After Aldermen Get Big Lead Over Officials in Contest

Blessed with ideal picnic weather and with practically every man connected with the city's government on the grounds the annual outing of the city officials at Dresden park Tuesday was a success in every detail.

While the sun poured down with heat unusual, the generosity of certain manufacturers of liquids eased the situation considerably and no prostrations were recorded—all despite the fact that an occasional water plant argument went many degrees above white heat.

The party was conveyed to the grounds in big launches early in the morning and immediately after being deposited there started the athletic events.

A ball game between the city officials and aldermen in which the latter were victorious by a score so overwhelming that Scorekeeper Fred Easton refused to give it out, was one of the features of the day.

J. E. Higbee, city attorney, was put in the box for the officials and it was his inexcusable work that lost the game, claims Mayor Ori Sorensen. Higbee, knocked all over the lot, was taken out in the fourth and put in as catcher while Joe Frisch twirled. As a catcher Higbee was not an Archer and again he was taken out, this time for good. But his removal came too late, the aldermen had hammered in enough runs to last two or three games.

Alderman Joe Bartl was the star stick artist for the aldermen, driving in three runs and making a "homer" at a critical point. Frank Kohn is alleged to have made a home run. No one could be found who was willing to stand for this statement.

About noon a splendid dinner, prepared under the direction of Chef Walter Stannard, was served. Although the various dishes were not inspected by Health Commissioner Furstmann, they were consumed with surprising rapidiay.

A genuine German band added life to the occasion whenever they could be persuaded to play.

Alderman Lang entertained the "Mayor of Dresbach" and, it is said, entered into a lengthy discussion with him on the relative merits of sloe gin and Gordon gin rickies. The argument was still in progress when the party, tired but happy, started the return trip for La Crosse.

The city officials and aldermen were a unit in declaring the affair to be one of the best ever held.

STATE REGULATIONS OF MOTOR VEHICLES

New Rules for Speed and for Passing Other Vehicles on the Road

SIRENS ARE NOW ILLEGAL

Driver Who Fails to Stop at Accidents Liable to a Fine or Even Jail

MADISON, Wis., July 30. — The actual changes in the laws governing the operation of automobiles and motorcycles, made by the 1913 legislatude, are not so important as the public has been led to believe, through reading of bills introduced which failed and the various debates upon them. Some of the generally recognized rules of the road have been framed into laws.

Thus the Martin bill 389-S, which hasn't yet been printed or numbered, prescribes that drivers of motor vehicles must pass vehicles going in opposite direction to the right, and pass those overtaken to the left, giving always half the traveled highway. At road or street intersections the driver has the right of way over all vehicles from the left, except at city corners where there is a policeman stationed to regulate traffic.

When a street car is actually taking on or discharging passengers the driver must stop to avoid accident.

In meeting or passing any other vehicle on a road less than twenty feet in width speed must be reduced to fifteen miles an hour or less.

Lights must be displayed from thirty minutes after sunset to thirty minutes before sunrise.

All motor machines must use improved mufflers and within the corporation limits of city or village these must not be cut out. No siren horn can be used except on hospital vans or police or firemen vehicles.

Chapter 103 amends the present statutes to provide that no motor vehicle may run through a cemetery or park, or pass a school where persons are or may be in the highway at a speed exceeding eight miles an hour.

Chapter 138 makes it unlawful for any motor vehicle to be run at a speed exceeding ten miles an hour while within 150 feet of or passing another vehicle going in either direction on a single road highway.

Chapter 310 authorizes any common council or village board to license operators of motor vehicles, and to require that no unlicensed person shall drive, for hire, any such vehicle. Any person who does such work for hire, however, shall not be obliged to take out such license until he has been in the city or village five days.

Chapter 576 provides that any person operating a motor vehicle of any kind, and who has injured any person and therewith fails to stop and give his name and address, and the name and address of the owner of the machine to any bystander, who shall so request on behalf of the injured person, shall be guilty of a felony and may be fined not to exceed $1,000 or be imprisoned not less than three months nor more than two years.

Chapter 603 provides that from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise every motor or similar vehicle shall carry a reasonable bright light in front and a red tail light; and it shall be unlawful for the driver of such vehicle to drive at such speed that his machine cannot be brought to a complete stop within the distance ahead that the driver can with the aid of his light, in connection with light from other sources see an object the size of a person.

Thought Window Was a "Movie."

At the general assembly of the Presbyterians in Edinburgh a home mission deputy told this story to illustrate the part the picture theater plays in a modern child's life. A little girl, being taken to church by her mother, viewed a stained-glass window for a minute or two. "Ma," she asked, "when are they going to change the picture?"

Entirely a Personal Matter.

Mark Twain and his peculiarities were being discussed by an English class in a western high school. One youthful orator had very eloquently described Mark's personal appearance and had laid unusual stress on the author's fondness for wearing white flannel. "Gee!" said one much interested youth. "I don't see how the public knows whether his flannels was red or white."—Everybody's Magazine.

To Stop Scaling of Psoriasis

Classed with eczema, psoriasis has been considered one of the most obstinate of skin diseases.

A lady in Lexington, Ky., says that before she began using S. S. S. the disease broke out at frequent intervals where she thought it cured. But by getting her blood under control by the influence of S. S. S., psoriasis entirely disappeared and there was never again the slightest sign of it.

Like nearly all skin diseases, psoriasis is primarily due to impaired blood.

The skin is but a network of fine blood vessels. And it is a perfectly natural consequence that any influence in the blood that is a condition of ill health makes its first appearance in the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from this fine network of blood vessels in the skin, those elements which it requires for regeneration.

Thus pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin, is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

This is why skin troubles vanish so readily and why they do not return.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. Take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 182 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

EXPECT VIOLENCE IN MINE STRIKE

Miners Are Bitter and Trouble Is Feared; Militiamen Refuse to Oppose Strikers

CALUMET, Mich., July 30.—Unless immediate steps are taken to bring about a settlement of the copper miners' strike, which has been on here for the past two weeks, it was considered certain this morning that the bitterness of the strikers would culminate in widespread violence.

As a result of fights last night between non-union men and strikers, the two men were seriously hurt and seven others badly bruised.

Telegrams were received last night and today by strike leaders from Governor Ferris, who proposes a conference of strikers and operators at Lansing.

Two members of the militia are in the Houghton county jail for refusing to join the guard in doing duty against the strikers. Both are union men.

BUSINESS MEN TO PUT ON CHAUTAUQUA

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 30.—Beginning August 3 and continuing for five days the Redpath Vawter company will put on a chautauqua course at McGregor. A tent accommodating several thousand will be erected in Turner park near the river. Extensive advertising has been done through the eastern part of Clayton county and big crowds seem assured. The program includes as musical attractions Victor's Italian band, the Mendelssohn quartet, the Dunbar Singing orchestra, H. Ruthven McDonald and the Lilliputian singers. Addresses will be given by Governor Robert S. Vessey of South Dakota, Albert L. Blair, George R. Laird, Arthur K. Peck and Chaplain Laugher. The Seton Indian work modeled after the Indian of Leatherstocking fame will be a special feature for the entertainment of the children. The chautauqua is given under the direction of the McGregor Business Men's association. The members are endeavoring to make it a big success with a view to holding annual chautauquas.

CHARGES MASSACRE TO GEN. PERSHING

Passengers from Orient Say U. S. Troops Killed Moro Women and Children at Bagsag

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. — That 1,600 Moros were slain by American troops during the recent battle of Bagsag, in the Philippines, was the story brought here today by passengers from the orient who arrived on the liner Persia. They declare no quarter was given the natives who used women and children as shields against American bullets.

John McLean, a civil employe of the United States quartermaster in Manila, declared General Pershing, in charge of the Moro expedition, maintained a strict censorship and arrested newspaper men who tried to get the details of the Bagsag engagement.

The details were horrible, said McLean. The Moros making their last stand, were shot down to a man. When the Americans made their final assault on the Moro position in the center of an extinct volcano, he said, many of the natives held women and children in front of them. In this way 196 women and 340 children were shot to pieces.

Reminders of Limerick Siege.

Near a battle scene during the siege of Limerick, in 1691, workmen while excavating discovered a quantity of human remains recently. A bullet hole was observed in one skull, and on examination a bullet was found embedded in the bone.

GRAND JURY PROBES MULHALL'S STORY

WASHINGTON, July 30. — It was reported at the capitol this afternoon that the grand jury was investigating the "confession of Col. M. M. Mulhall," former lobbyist for the N. A. M., in connection with charges of perjury made by ex-Congressman James E. Watson of Indiana. It was reported that Watshon was a witness before the grand jury.

STRANGE AND COOK FOR SENATE SEAT?

Political Students Claim that Neenah Men Plan Entering Big Race for Toga in Two Years

SITUATION MORE COMPLICATED

Morris Is First in Field and Believed to Be Strongest; Governor May Decide to Enter Race

Followers of state politics are interested in the story, to the effect that former Lieutenant Governor John Strange and S. A. Cook, both of Neenah, Wis., will enter the political race for the Republican United States senatorial nomination. Mayor Ori Sorensen, returning from Neenah says their candidacy is common talk there.

In the event these two gentlemen do enter the situation at the next state election will be extremely complicated.

Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris, La Crosse, was the first to declare his intention of making the run and is the man who will get the unidivded support of the enure La Follette or progressive wing of the republican party.

Governor Francis E. McGovern had designs on the seat now held by Isaac Stephenson but his continued failure to make an announcment leads to the theory that his excellency plans to run again for governor making the marketing bill, killed by the assembly, his platform.

Mr. Strange was Lieutenant Governor of Wisconsin for two terms. Mr. Cook was a candidate for the senatorial nomination against La Folleette.

PROBE SALE OF BONDS

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY M'ADOO'S CHARGE RESULTS IN BROKER BEING CALLED BEFORE EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, July 30.—The charge of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo that New York banks were conspiring to defeat the currency bill resulted today in the summoning of E. A. Manice, of the Stock exchange firm of E. A. Manice & Co., to appear before the committee on business conduct of the exchange. Manice will be asked to explain the sale last Saturday of $25,000 in government two per cent bonds on twenty days delivery.

At the time this sale was made there was a suspicion that the broker was selling "short" but Manice declared he was acting for himself and had no customer. It has developed that the National City bank purchased the bonds. Wall street has seized upon this fact as its main point in the denial of McAdoo's statement that the banks are selling bonds in an effort to depress prices. The government twos reached a new low price in selling at 95½.

WANT MRS. YOUNG TO KEEP HER JOB

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young.

Plans for a huge mass meeting of women to protest against the resignation of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young as superintendent of Chicago's public schools were set on foot as soon as it became generally known that Mrs. Young had decided to give up the position.

PANKHURST VANISHES

MILITANT LEADER DISAPEARS FROM LONDON AND POLICE MAKE NO EFFORT TO FIND HER

LONDON, July 30.—No attempt was being made today by the police to find Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, though it was known that she had disapeared from her flat and gone into seclusion somewhere outside of London. Suffragettes at her flat refuse to say where she has gone, but said that she was slowly recovering her health and would soon reappear in public in London.

Mary Wyah, who went on a hunger strike until she was weak and sick from starvation, inaugurated a new kind of strike by refusing to leave Holloway jail on a ticket of leave. She vowed she would remain in prison until released unconditionally and sat on the steps of a hospital until early today, after the prison officials sent her there in an ambulance. Sylvia Pankhurst continued her sleep strike last night and today was in a very serious condition.

LIVERPOOL, July 30. — Mrs. Edith Rigsby, the suffragette who confessed that she burned the home of Sir W. H. Lever and also planted the bomb that damaged the Liverpool Stock exchange today was sentenced to nine months in prison at hard labor. She is the wife of a physician of Preston.

M'GREGOR MAN DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 30.—The community was greatly shocked today when word came over the wire that John F. McMichael had been killed in an automobile accident near Denver and would be brought to McGregor for burial on Thursday. While returning to Denver from Morrison, Col., last evening in his car in the company of three friends, the auto skidded over the bank of Bear creek and turning turtle pinned Mr. McMichael under it, drowning him in five feet of water. The three companions were thrown clear of the machine and escaped uninjured.

The young man was born and raised in McGregor, going to Denver to live but a few years ago. He was a grandson of J. Flemming, one of the best known and wealthiest lumbermen on the upper river in early days. While he was yet a small boy his mother, eldest daughter of Mr. Flemming, died, and shortly afterward his father, W. T. McMichael. Since then he has lived with his father's parents, first at McGregor and later at Denver. He has been a student at Dartmouth college the past two years. He was heir to an estate of half a million which he would have received on coming of age next February.

CONVALESCENT DIES IN SUDDEN ATTACK

Stricken with embolism, or blood clotting, when he was considered on the high road to recovery, George Harter, 24, of Locust, Iowa, died at 6:15 yesterday evening, an hour and a quarter after the disease set in. Death occurred at the Lutheran hospital here.

Harter was severely injured in a runaway while mowing hay on a farm near Locust three weeks ago. He was thrown out and caught by the sickle bar of the mower. His leg was crushed.

Harter was brought to La Crosse at once, and his leg was adjusted by Dr. Christiansen immediately. He was convalescing rapidly, and had expected to be out of the hospital in five weeks.

Harter's parents are in Germany. They have been sent for, and the body will be kept in the undertaking parlors of Fessler and Dahl until they arrive, when the funeral will be held.

THOUSANDS ATTEND GROCERS' PICNIC

Intense Heat Fails to Discourage Citizens Who Flock to Myrick Park Throughout Day

SOUTH SIDE WINS BALL GAME

North Side Clerks in a Hot Contest Lose Big Game; Various Events on Program for Big Day

While the city sweltered in a 91 above temperature fully 3,000 people from all parts of the city gathered in Myrick park to join with the retail grocers of the city in their fourteenth annual picnic. Following the parade af the early morning a steady stream poured into the park from street cars, automobiles and carriages and many coming on foot from nearby. By noon a record breaking crowd had gathered.

Lunches Prominent

Lunch baskets were in prominence. Families scattered out under the shade of trees to escape the rays of the sun. Three booths where you could purchase anything that the heart desired in the way of refreshments on the dry order, popcorn, peanuts, etc., were well patronized. A. A. Anderson had charge of booth No. 1, with nine able assistants. C. Wenzel with the same number of assistants manned the second booth, while J. J. Hammes with fifteen helpers endeavored to satisfy the hunger and thirst of the large aggregation in booth No. 3.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the grocery clerks of the north side lined up against the clerks of the south side in a ball game, which ended in the close decision of 9 to 12 in favor of the south siders. Prizes, consisting of sacks of flour, cigars and fancy brooms ,were awarded the lucky players.

Games in Afternoon

Seventeen competition games for all ages were particnpated in during the afternoon. Following is the list: Girls' foot race, boys' foot race, ball throwing into a banana crate, boys' hobble sack race, foot race, grocer clerks only; young ladies' foot race, tug of war between north and south side grocer clerks, apple eating contest, cake eating contest, peanut race, married ladies' foot race, foot races for girls and boys under 8 years of age, women's tug of war, fat men's foot race, nail driving contest, foot race for ladies over 25 years of age. Prizes for first, second and third places in all the races were awarded.

Featuring the games were the two tugs of war participated in by both men and women.

"Everywhere was Harry Taggart at once," said someone. From the time the first persons arrived at the park Mr. Taggart was there, shaking hands with everybody and straightening out this and that.

The donation of prizes given to winners of games were made by whodlesale grocery concerns doing business with the La Crosse retail stores. The chairmen of the picnic offered a vote of thanks to these contributors in behalf of the grocers of the city.

Knew His Master's Politics.

During a general election in England a canvasser called at the house of the late Prof. Froude, the historian. Mr. Froude was out, so the canvasser interrogated the butler as to how Mr. Froude would vote. The butler—an old servant who understood his master well—replied: "When the liberals is in Mr. Froude is sometimes a conservative. When the conservatives is in Mr. Froude is always a liberal."

Visiting Cook.

An English girl has adopted the profession of visiting cook, and will devote herself to teaching the indispensable art. She believes that "if kitchens were beautiful, and not the stuffy, stodgy dungeons that they so often are, and that if women dressed for their work in them with the care that they dress for a ball, cooking would no longer be regarded as drudgery and a monotonous business."

Trees and Lightning.

The electrical resistance of trees is quite great, a quality which protects them to a considerable degree from lightning stroke. This resistance varies greatly with the character of the tissues and also with the temperature. This fact results in an annual and daily period of resistance. The cambium layer shows the least electrical resistance, followed by the phloem and sapwood.

World Beyond Our Ken.

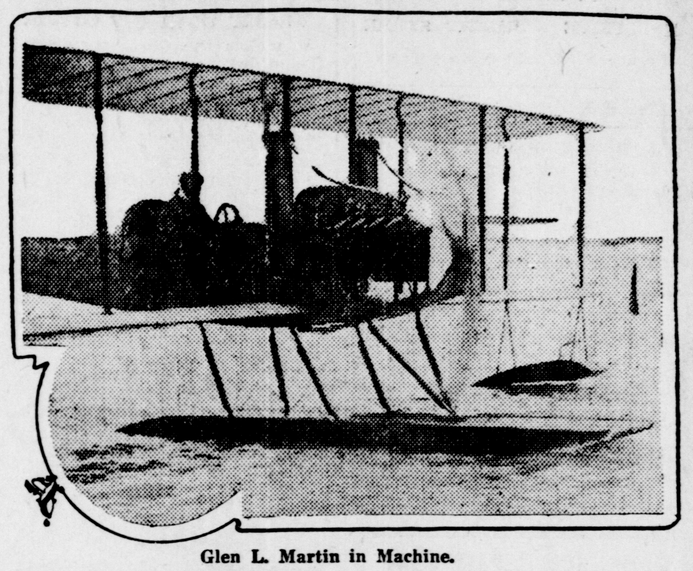

There are noises louder than thunder which we cannot hear, the roar that lies on the other side of silence. We men are poor, restless prisoners, hemmed in by our senses as by the wall of a cell, hearing only a part of Nature's orchestra and that part imperfectly; seeing only a thousandth part of the color marvels about us and seeing that infinitesimal part incorrectly and partially.—From "Unpathed Waters," by Frank Harris.

GLEN L. MARTIN DOES SOME NICE NEW STUNTS IN HIS LITTLE FLYING BOAT

Glen L. Martin in Machine.

PLANS ROAD MERGER

BENJAMIN BUSH WOULD UNITE MISSOURI PACIFIC, RIO GRANDE AND WESTERN PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—The merger of the Missouri Pacific, Rio Grande and Western Pacific railroadsinto a single system is planned by Benjamin F. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific, according to reports here today.

The Missouri Pacific owns the Rio Grande railroad, which controls the Western Pacific, first step in the merger, it is said, will be the combining of the tow latter roads, with a view to their ultimate absorption by the Missouri Pacific. Bush will leave here tomorrow for St. Louis.

CAMINETTI AND DIGGS DENY GUILT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Maury I. Diggs and Drew Caminetti today appeared before United States District Judge Van Fleet and pleaded not guilty to the charge of conspiracy to take Lola Norris and Martha Warrington of Sacramento out of the state for immoral purposes.

The court announced that the trial of Diggs would begin next Tuesday, Caminetti's trial immediately following.

After the disposal of this case, Diggs and Attorney Harris, his counsel, pleaded not guilty to a charge of subordination of perjury.

Their motion for separate trials was denied. This trial will follow immediately after the Diggs and Caminetti white slavetrials.

Doubly Painted.

Of yore portrait painters tried to make women look as if they had exquisite natural complexions; now some of the new ilk make them look more than painted.

Morning of Life.

Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting sun be to you as its close; then let every one of these short lives leave its sure record of some kindly thing done for others, some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourselves.—John Ruskin.

STORM STOPS SESSION

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A violent storm with a deluge of rain, striking electrical display and a shower of hailstones, many as big as walnuts, broke here shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon. The din was so terrific at the capitol that the senate had to recess for twenty minutes, Majority Leader Kern being almost unable to make his voice heard. It was as dark as night.

The Line of March

Following the commission came the police marching in compact order, followed by Andre's band. Next were the city council and city officials, the board of trade, county officials, progressive league, retail grocers' association, merchants' association and professional men.

Then came the children—an army of them. They marched with precision, conscious that a great event was in progress, their bright, clean clothing and smiling, animated faces presenting a glowing picture. Seldom have generals led a grander army than that of Messrs. Dunn and Raymond.

Next the long line of floats came into sight. There were many attractive designs, and the entire butchers' association, of which Lieutenant Fleis is secretary, were repsented by floats. The others were those of individual firms, and the section made a fine showing.

The automobiles passed, seemingly in endless procession. They presented a fine suggestion of the wealth and prosperity of La Crosse.

Many Visitors in City

Many visitors from outside the city were present, and an interesting feature of the parade was a little bunch of marchers representing our sister city of Tomah.

The unions were largely represented, although their members were pretty widely scattered throughout the parade. The men in a number of factories where rush work had been expected to detain them participated, leaving the plants but partly manned.

Hundred of people who were waiting along the eastern portion of Main street and on North Twelfth street, expecting to see the parade, were disappointed because the procession practically disbanded upon reaching Sixth street.

Taggart Thanks Public

"On behalf of the grocers, I want to thank all who participated," said Mr. Taggart. "It was more of an undertaking than lots of people supposed, and without the co-operation of hundreds of wide-awake citizens it could not have succeeded."

Noble Mr. Winks!

"I was a fool ever to marry you," sobbed Mrs. Winks. "Now, my dear," said Mr. Winks, nobly, "I cannot permit you to take the blame for that. It was I who was the fool for ever asking you. The mistake was not yours, but mine."—Harper's Weekly.

MARRIAGE LAWS MORE STRINGENT

HEREAFTER MUST SWEAR TO AGES

Physician's Certificate Necessary to Procure Permit; Many Other Changes Made

MADISON, Wis., July 30.—Are you thinking of getting married? If you are a man there are some conditions which have to be met before you can get a license in Wisconsin that make the function a more serious matter than it would have been a month ago. The legislature enacted four laws which bear directly upon the marriage contract.

Chapter 219 provides that applicants for a license to marry shall declare before an officer authorized to administer oaths, and sign and verify in the presence of two subscribing witnesses they are legal age; that neither of them has been divorced by a decree of any Wisconsin court within one year prior to the date of the application; that neither is insane, idiotic or epileptic and is not within the prohibited degree of consanguinity, that is they must not be more closely related than second cousins.

Chapter 324 specifies the grounds upon which a judge may waive the five days required by law between the granting of the license, and the marriage ceremony. If he has satisfactory evidence either party is critically ill and likely to die; that the woman is pregnant or if the parent or guardian of the woman makes request. Persons applying for the waiver of five days must have resided in the state at least thirty days. When the waiver order is issued by the court, it must be given to the person officiating as his evidence of right to perform the ceremony.

The last and most important of the bills passed affecting the marriage contract got through at 2 o'clock in the morning of last Saturday. It is the Richards bill, which has not yet been signed by the governor. This bill was prepared and strongly urged by Senator Hoyt, Waukesha, who is a physician.

It provides that any man making application for a license to marry must, before he can get the license, present a certificate showing that within fifteen days prior to the date of the application he had submitted to an examination by a regularly licensed physician.

This bill had a rough road to enactment but it deserves to be classed among the mast important measures of the session.

SEA LION ESCAPES AND ELUDES SCORE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 30—A sea lion on Tuesday took up its abode in historic Minnehaha falls at the City park of the same name. Hours of hard work and keen strategy of twenty men failed to effect the capture of the invader.

Splashing around in the spray on the rocks at the foot of the falls, over which large quantities of water are pouring, his cries arose above the roar to taunt his would-be captors. The water is deep and one man going beyond his depth in trying to catch the slippery animal narrowly escaped drowning.

The sea lion belongs to a museum located near the falls.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK. July 30.—The stock market opened moderately active and firm.

11 a. m.—Considering the large amount of stocks sold for short accounts and rather heavy realizations on the part of bull speculators the market held remarkably well during the first hour.

Traders agreed that the selling movement was based on the prediction that the dividend on Illinois Central would be reduced 5 per cent at a meeting of the directors today. It was said there were large stop orders in steel at 59 and efforts were made to put the stock down to that figure so that the stops might be caught. Buying around 59½, however, was very sturdy.

Noon—The market was active.

2 p. m.—The market reacted in the early afternoon.

Chicago Grain Review.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The action in the corn pit held all the interest of grain traders today. At the outset there was a repetition of the excited buying that featured yesterday's trading and prices jumped 7-8c, the bulls clamoring that the heat wave was doing tremendous damage to the western crop.

On the advance offerings were unloaded freely, giving rise to the opinion that the crop damage had been greatly exaggerated for trading purposes and prices quickly dropped to the levels of yesterday's close. Predictions of rain over the corn belt tomorrow had something to do with the decline. Bull leaders insisted today that a continuance of the present heat wave for the rest of the week would mean 70 cent corn.

Wheat started firm but weather reports everywhere were favorable, and there was a let up in the export demand that caused prices to ease off 3-4c below yesterday's close.

Oats was firm and higher at the outset with corn, but dropped 1-4c under yesterday's close when the bottom fell out of the corn market.

Provisions ruled easier with a weak hog market.

Wheat continued to decline in the afternoon, the other grains holding at about noon prices. The grain list closed at about low figures for the day.

Provisions continued weak in the afternoon.

Evidently Knew His Townsmen.

A somewhat personal reference was that of an old Lanarkshire minister who read out for his text the verse in the psalms, "I said in my haste, 'all men are liars;'" and then proceeded to give his sermon in the form of an apostrophe, thus: "Ay, David, ye said it in your haste, did ye? If ye had lived in this parish, ye might have said it at your leisure."

Watching The Scoreboard

The Giants evened up the score for those defeats in New York by trouncing the Cardinals twice. Demaree and Fromme allowed but ten hits between them for the two games. Demaree drove in the only run of his game with a sacrifice fly.

The old war horse, Mordecai Brown and Johnny Kling were the real factors in the downfall of the Dodgers. Brown came to the rescue of Johnson in the eighth inning and while he held Brooklyn safe, Kling singled, scoring two men. Kling totalled three hits in four times at the bat. One was a double.

The Phillies are picking up again. Their victory over Pittsburg yesterday made it three out of four for the Pirate series.

The Boston Braves are trailing after Brooklyn for the leadership of tthe second division. They gained a full game yesterday by hammering Overall and Richie for twelve hits, and trouncing the Cubs.

Just to prove that they have broken the Yankee Jinx, the Naps beat them twice. Chance had 19 men left on bases during the two games. Joe Jackson was reasonably active, getting a home run, one double and two singles, stole two bases and scored four runs.

The Red Sox beat Chicago twice with a total of 13 hits for the two games against 12 for the White Sox. The first was a shutout, Foster pitching a four hit game.

Not taking any chances with the weather, the Athletics jumped in and shiuout the Tigers and rain stopped the second game in the third inning. Every man in the Athletic lineup with the exception of Pitcher Brown hit safely.

Engel of Washington beat the St. Louis Browns for the second time in four days, holding them to three hits.

GIRL CHAMPION FAILS IN DIFFICULT SWIM

Miss Rose Pitonoff

Miss Rose Pitonoff, the beautiful champion woman swimmer, was forced to give up her attempt to go from the Battery to Sandy Hook after battling continuously with the tide and choppy water in North river.

An Ohio man prefers to be broke rather than bankrupt. Some people will doubtless consider him a man of strange and extravagant whims.

At Play Grounds

SOUTH SIDE—SENIORS

Colts, 11; Regulars, 7

In a game replete with errors and misplays the Colts won their first game of the season when they defeated the Regulars by a score of 11 to 7. The game was interesting throughout, but the Regulars, the new team in the league, give evidence that they are a strong bunch. The feature of the game was a catch of a long fly by Hanson, left fielder for tthe Regulars.

Imperials, 10; Regulars, 2

The Imperials won their third straight game when they defeated the Regulars by the score of 10 to 2. The game was on ice for the Imperials from the start and never was their lead threatened. The pitching of Weigle and the hard hitting of the Imperial team were the features.

Pirates, 9; Colts, 0

The Colts forfeited a game to the Pirates by non-appearance on the Hood street grounds.

JUNIORS

Cardinals, 7; White Sox, 4

For the second time within a week the Cardinals defeated the White Sox this time the score being 7 to 4. The Cardinal team is the only aggregation in the league which has defeated the Sox and judging from the two past performances, they have the stronger team. Heft of the Cardinals pitched a fine game and although the Sox pounded him for three runs in the last inning, held the opposing team at his mercy. Schnell starred for the Sox by opunding out a home run with one man on base.

Cardinals, 7; Ramblers, 3

The Cardinals continued their winning streak by defeating the Ramblers by the score of 7 to 3 and are now leading the Junior league. This is the second time that the Ramblers have played and if they continue improving at the same rate will be heard from before the season is over.

Hoosiers, 12; Dodgers, 5

The Hoosiers got the scalp of their old rivals last evening when they beat the Dodgers by the score of 12 to 5. The game was snappy and full of sensational plays. The Hoosiers were very successful in connecting with the ball and played tight with men on bases.

MIDGETS

All Stars, 5; Phenoms, 3

The newly organized All Stars continued their wins by defeating the Phenoms of Hood street by the score of 5 to 3. The game was a hard fought one and the result was uncertain until the last man was out. The work of the two pitchers featured.

The Badgers defeated the Runts at the Hood street grounds by the score of 24 to 4.

Badgers, 9; Phenoms, 6

The Badgers won their sixth straight victory by defeating the Phenoms by the score of 9 to 6. The game was close and exciting and was anyone's game until the last inning. Pitcher Denny of the Badgers practically won his own game in the third inning when he made a home run with one man on base.

The All Stars defeated the Runts at Hood street by the score of 18 to 9.

NORTH SIDE—MIDGETS

Champs Lose to "Q" Kids

In a fast game the "Q" Kids defeated the Champs thus making both teams tie now for first place in the Midget league. The same teams will meet again August 5. Score, "Q" Kids, 8; Champs, 3.

Stars Outplay Tigers

The Stars met the Tigers and downed them to the tune of 37 to 14. Although the teams were nearly matched in size, the game was very slow, due to overthrows and poor fielding on both sides. The Stars had a little the better of the argument when it oame to stick work.

Gold Birds Take Two Games

In one of the closest games of the season the Gold Birds by heady playing and a perseverance which was remarkable nosed out the Moore's Colts in the final inning and won by a score of 7 to 6.

They continued their winning streak the following day winning from the Rangers, 21 to 6.

Rubber Mills, 6; Billikens, 1

The Rubber Mills had no trouble with the Billikens again for everything went as smooth as clock work and the battery was working in great shape. The score stood 6 to 1 at the end of the game.

Moore's Colts Drop Another

The Colts were again defeated by the fast Nelson aggregation in a game which was characterized by fast playing and good team work. Knutson had everything his own way as usual and Clow's work behind the bat was superb. Score, 6 to 1.

BRITISH TAR TO MEET U. S. JACK

NEW YORK, July 30.—Two more "heavyweight hopes" will mingle in a ten round fight here tonight when Frank McGuinness, champion of the English navy, and Jack Keating of the Brooklyn navy yard will appear before the St. Nicholas Athletic club. Keating is working with Al Palzer. McGuinness has won his last nine fights with knockouts.

CROSS LICKS BALDWIN

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 30.—Leach Cross is displaying the best form of his career, was the opinion today of fans who witnessed his 20 round fight at Venice last night with Matty Baldwin of Boston. The New York dentist came to life in the closing rounds but could not land effectively and Cross got the decision.

MOVING PICTURE PARADE A GREAT SUCCESS-TAGGART

Splendid Turnout Marches in Front of Camera and Puts La Crosse on the Map

HUNDREDS PARTICIPATE IN EVENT

CHILDREN IN ANIMATED COLUMN

"Whin th' polis force assimbled f'r their semi-annual dhrill,

Andre's band shattered the atmosphere with the enthusiastic strains as Secretary Harry Taggart (Tim Toolin) marshalled the forces of the biggest procession that ever marched in the streets of La Crosse, and as a result fifteen hundred feet of moving picture reels showing La Crosse from every civic angle were taken.

In addition moving pictures will be taken at the picnic grounds in Myrick park today where the hosts of the grocers and their patrons are holding the annual blowout. Also scenic pictures of natural attractions about La Crosse, and of institutions such as the postoffice, will be taken during the day.

With Eddie Fleis as his lieutenant, Secretary Taggart acted as the infantry squad on line of march, forming the parade at Market square, while E. H. Derr, Andrew Boyd, Dr. Dan McArthur, A. J. Flynn and Leigh Toland, all mounted, acted as marshals.

An Army of Children

L. B. Raymond and Moncena Dunn, who were given charge of the children's section, had from 600 to 1,000 young people in line, and they were the most animated part of the parade.

The length of the parade can only be estimated, as most of the sections fell out of the line of march at St. Joseph's cathedral, after passing the picture machine. Some idea of it may be derived from the fact that the automobile section was still passing through market square when the first car passed before the camera in front of the Majestic, showing that this section was more than nine blocks in length. For the parade to pass a given point required an hour and ten minutes.

CHILD SHOOTS SELF OWING TO SCOLDING

NEW YORK, July 30.—As little 12 year old Susan Langenegger lay on a cot in Amsterdam hospital today suffering from a bullet wound in her head, her mother hovered near and repeated over and over again that she loved the child. And though Susan was barely conscious the mother hoped that she might understand. Susan shot herself yesterday with a revolver after writing a note saying: "I know you like the two dogs better than you do me, you said so."

Susan may recover, but in that event she will be blind, the hospital physicians say.

Mrs. Langenegger said she had reproved Susan for whipping the two fox terriers, but said she loved the child and had not treated her cruelly.

TURKS TO HOLD ADRIANOPLE

Adopt Defiant Tone and Refuse to Evacuate the Holy City

BUCHAREST, July 30.—A five days armistice was agreed upon this afternoon by the Balkan states, Bulgaria, Servia, Greece and Montenegro, agreeing. Within that time a peace conference will be held by the delegates gathered here.

LONDON, July 30.—The Balkan wars, beginning when the allies attacked Turkey and continuing when they disagreed among themselves, causing almost ceaseless fighting since last October, have cost the belligerents a total of more than 350,000 lives and a billion and a quarter dollars, according to estimates by correspondents in the field.

ADRIANOPLE, July 30.—Apparently encouraged by the delay of the powers in taking steps to coerce Turkey, the Ottomans have taken on a defiant tone and declare they will never evacuate the recaptured holy city.

Enver Bey, commander of the moslem troops who repossessed Adrianople today said:

"Let Europe understand once and for all time that we will never give up Adrianople. The army is resolved to hold the city or die to the last man."

URGES U. S. RAILWAY

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Construction of a government railroad in Alaska is the way to break the Alaska "railroad trust," Delegate Wickersham of Alaska today told the house territories committee. J. P. Morgan & Co. and the Guggenheim Brothers, Wickersham declared, control every mile of railroad in the territory; are partners in a "gentlemen's agreement" of operation; are managers of a "wharf trust" and have defied all attempts of the government to curb them.

SOLONS AFTER SULZER

ALBANY, N. Y., July 30.—The New York legislature 'came back' at Governor Sulzer today and in an attempt to show that he was guilty of violating the corrupt practices act a special committee took up an inquiry into the report made by the governor on his campaign contributors. A check for $2,500 from Jacob Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., was introduced in evidence as having been contributed to the Sulzer fund, but was not included in the report filed by the governor.

BUFFALO GETS EPWORTH MEET

INDIANAPOLIS, July 30.—Buffalo, N. Y., was awarded the next meeting, July 15, 1914, of the quadrennial convention of the Epworth league of the world.

BLAME WIRELESS FOR BIG DROUTH

NEW YORK, July 30.—Six weeks ago the new wireless experimental station at Sayville, L. I., began working, the other end of the line being in Germany, and for six weeks Sayville has experienced a drouth. It has rained all around Sayville and in the last 48 hours New York has been twice deluged, once with a record rainfall.

Truck gardeners at Sayville blame their localized drouth on the wireless and today were considering sending a protest to Washington. They insist that the wireless plant absorbs all the moisture in the air and prevents precipitation.

SUSPECT MONKEY AS JEWEL THIEF

Narragansett $250,000 Robbery Leaves No Clue to Identity or Methods Used

THINK OF GRIND-ORGAN MAN

Suggested that Musician's Trained Simian May Have Been Actual Thief

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 30.—While private detectives searched for some clue that might lead to an arrest in connection with the theft of jewelry from summer colonists here, the aggregate value of which may reach $250,000, society folk today forgot social engagements and the gowns they had worn last as they discussed the greatest mystery that has ever visited this exclusive section.

Monkey Suspected

All that was needed to throw the social colony into a complete panic was the appearance of a monkey on a string. Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, today could not recall a single incident that might aid the detectives in tracing her missing jewels valued at least at $75,000, except that a man with a monkey played on his grind organ outside of her cottage last Saturday. C. C. Tegethoff, agent of the Harriman estate in New York, has suggested that this man may have been spying about the house, and that the monkey was the actual thief.

But few jewels were in evidence here today. There has been a rush to send family heirlooms and other pieces of value to places of safety in deposit vaults.

Hanan Home Robbed

The sensation caused by the report that Mr. Rumsey had been robbed of all her jewelry, including the rope of pearls given her by her mother and valued at $60,000, was increased when it became known that the cottage of John H. Hanan of New York, had also been entered. Between forty and fifty pieces of jewelry belonging to Mrs. Hanan were taken. They were worth $150,000.

Saturday night a necklace valued at $2,000 was taken from the cottage of Edward Douglas Pierce of Providence. The necklace belonged to Mrs. Walter Ives of New York, who, with her husband, was a guest at the Pierce cottage.

All of the robberies are surrounded with mystery. No one knows how the thief entered the houses, no one saw the robber and he left no trail that would indicate how entrance was gained to the house, or which way he fled. Hanan is ill at his cottage and Mrs. Hanan, five servants and a nurse were in the house when the robbery occurred. Mrs. Hanan's personal maid was out of the room less than 25 minutes, but when she returned the room had been entered and the jewels were gone.

BRYAN MEDIATOR

WASHINGTON, July 30.—In hopes of striking common ground on which the conservatives and "insurgents" of the house banking committee may meet in handling the currency bill, Secretary of State Bryan has been appealed to by both sides, it became known today.

DOROTHY GRUPP DEAD

Dorothy, the eight months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Grupp, 123 South Seventh street, died at one of the local hospitals this morning of a complication of diseases. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet.

THIRD MAD DOG SHOT BY POLICE

What is believed to be the third mad dog within a few days in La Crosse was shot by the police this morning.

The animal, a fox terrier, belonged to Olaf Erickson, 1032 Redfield street and this morning developed symptoms of the disease. Frothing at the mouth it tore around the streets in the vicinity of the Erickson home. Residents there notified the police. After a search it was found near St. Mary's church on South Seventh street, and killed.

Officials and doctors again urge upon La Crosse people the necessity of confining their dogs to their own yards. "Warn children not to pet strange dogs," is the advice of those experienced.

The police department has issued no order to muzzle dogs but may, if conditions warrant later, it is said.

MRS. ASTOR BACK FOR SOCIAL BATTLE

NEW YORK, July 30.—With the arrival here today of Mrs. John Astor, the first wife of Col. John Jacob Astor, who went down on the Titanic, society leaders looked forward to the staging of the first skirmish in the battle for the social leadership of the east at Newport. She was met at the pier by her son Vincent. She was accompanied here by her daughter Muriel. Mrs. Astor crossed on the Olympic, sister ship of the Titanic.

The three innermost society circles now led by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, were probably more stirred today than they have been in years with the arrival of Mrs. Astor. It is understood that Mrs. Astor will go direct to Newport, where the great social struggle will take place.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Eighteen deaths within 24 hours, half a hundred prostration and new high temperature records for 1913—these marked the advent of the hot wave that grips the west and middle west today.

In Chicago, where the newest torrid spell sent the mercury to 99, breaking the season record, a cool breeze blowing off the lake brought relief during the night, but at daybreak the thermometer showed the temperature mounting again with the probability that it will reach 100 today. At Peoria, Ill., where a kiosk in the downtown district registered 109 degrees yesterday, the hot dry weather would result in temperature approaching 90 early today.

Many Over 100

Clay Center, Kas., claimant to the title of the "hottest city" reported a maximum temperature of 107. Cities all over the west reported readings in excess of 100.

The Chicago grain pit was tense with excitement before the opening hour today. For two weeks brokers have felt that a return of the hot dry weather would result in immense damage to the crop in the western states. The start of the hot spell caused an excited flurry that sent prices up from two to three cents yesterday. Leading houses predicted a rush to buy corn today that will sweep the bears off their feet.

Sun Withers Crops

The same condition was reported at Kansas City and to some extent at other grain centers. The sun is withering crops to an alarming extent and in some localities the damage has been permanent.

The weather bureau this afternoon promised relief for the west and middle west before tomorrow night. Showers over nearly the entire country from Illinois to the Rockies are predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

DARING THIEF SNATCHES MONEY

One of the Boldest Highway Robberies in Recent Years Occrs on North Side Tuesday

CLEVER WORK BY POLICE FORCE

Crook Had Three Changes of Clothes but Is Landed in Jail Three Hours After Stealing Big Sum

One of the most daring cases of highway robbery that has occurred in La Crosse in recent years happened at the Goddard hotel on the north side at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a man giving the name of Harry Fischer, St. Paul, Minn., snatched $80 in Canadian money from James Fee, aged 61 years, a native to Toronto, Can.

Three hours later the man was resting in the police station, the result of clever work on the part of the La Crosse police department.

Had Three Changes

That the man is an expert crook is indicated by the fact that he was equipped with three complete changes of clothes and had changed outfits twice before apprehended on the north side by Patrolman William Wermuth.

Aged Mr. Fee was counting his money in the office of the Goddard hotel. It was all in bills. Fischer, it is alleged, was loitering near and at an opportune time, when the office was deserted, snatched the roll of bills from the old man and dashed through the door.

Mr. Fee immediately shouted for help and for a few minutes there was an exciting chase in the vicinity of Grand Crossing. The thief outdistanced his pursuers, however, and disappeared.

The police station was notified and Chief John Webber and Detective Fitzsimmons made a flying trip in the department auto to the north side. All trace of the thief was lost.

Anticipating that the robber would attempt to exchange the Canadian money for notes of the United States Chief Webber sent out a general call to all officers to watch for a man changing Canadian money and to pay particular attention to the express offices.

It was soon after this that Patrolman Wermuth entered his brother's saloon at 138 North Third street. The man had been in there but a few minutes before and receiving a minute description of him the patrolman started after his man. He found him on Main street and the arrest was made.

Hold Passenger Train

Burlington passenger train No. 75 pulled out of the Grand Crossing yards soon after the robbery and it was first thought that the man made his get-away on it.

The train was stopped at Onalaska and Trempealeau and searched. At Winona it was held for several minutes while policemen of the up river city went through for the crook.

Claims to be Laborer

At the station the man gave his residence at St. Paul but gave no address. He claims to be a laborer but this is scouted by the police who maintain his "quick change" outfit belies the laboring man story.

He will be held for several days while the police communicate with other cities in an effort to get his record.

SIGNS MONEY BILL

MADISON, Wis., July 30.—Late yesterday afternoon Governor McGovern signed the departmental bill carrying appropriations of over $5,000,000 for the biennial period. The bill was laid before the governor yesterday afternoon. He had made a previous examination of it and gave his official signature immediately. The signing of the bill will hasten the payment of employes of the state, who could not be paid this month until the bill had become a law.

SAY T. R. GATHERS ROUGH RIDERS TO INVADE MEXICO

AUSTIN, Texas, July 30.—That Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has quietly organized four regiments of rough riders, drawing his recruits from the trained riders and marksmen of Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas, is the information received by Gov. Colquitt from what purports to be reliable sources.

The alleged reason assigned for the organization of such a force is that the colonel wanted to be prepared to enter Mexico in case of intervention.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—"If T. Roosevelt is raising a brigade of rough riders with the consent of the war department with which to invade Mexico," the war department is greatly surprised. Officials said so today. It was pointed out that one little thing that stood in the way of any such action was the necessity of having congressional sanction.

RICHARD'S BRIDE GIVEN $100,000

CHICAGO, July 30.—With a check for $100,000 still pinned to a rose stem where she found it, Mrs. Archibald Richards, who was Miss Esther Stewart of Aurora, Ill., until her marriage last night, started on a honeymoon trip today.

The check was a gift from John Stewart, multimillionaire lumberman of Aurora, and grandfather of the bride. He sent it concealed in a big bouquet of American beauties.

The bridegroom is the son of the general claim agent for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad.

MEXICAN SLOTH MAY HALT PEACE

Administration's Only Wordy in Situation Is that They May Delay Too Long

HUERTA CAN'T BE CANDIDATE

Present Ruler Debarred by Constitution from Presidential Race; Diaz Still Factor

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The administration has no word from Mexico today regarding the progress of the suggested peace movement there. Only unofficial information regarding this scheme has reached the state department. But Secretary Bryan is hopeful that the plan will be successful. Until it has been tried neither he nor the president will make any further moves. The very fact that the secretary is considering resuming his Chautauquaing the latter part of the week, and that the president may make a brief trip out of town demonstrates that the administration does not consider the Mexican situation acute.

Mexicans Too Slow

The chief danger in the situation is in the possibility of a sudden outbreak against foreigners and the movements of the Mexicans themselves. While it is made plain that leaders of the better class of Mexicans are demanding that the factions get together and establish peace they are proceeding with exasperating, although perfectly natural slowness. And this fact may finally exasperate outside interests and complicate matters.

Huerta Is Barred

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 30.—General Felix Diaz will be a candidate for president of Mexico at the regular elections next fall. General Vivtoriano Huerta is debarred by the constitution from becoming a candidate.

Referring to his statement that Huerta could not be a candidate for re-election, Diaz said: Huerta will not be a candidate because the constitution forbids him. The constitution says no president shall run for re-election until after one term elapses after his occupancy of the president's chair.

This what General Diaz himself said today before leaving for Los Angeles. He is on his way to Japan on a special mission for the Huerta government.

General Diaz ridiculed the report that his mission was to make concessions to the Japanese government whereby 50,000 Japanese could colonize on the Western coast of Mexico. He said its sole purpose was to thank the Mikado for Japan's participation in the Mexican centenary in 1910 and to arrange better trade relations.

Federals Victorious

NEW YORK, July 30.—Delighted at the prospects of appearing on the stage again in this country for the first time since the shooting of Stanford White and the sensational trials that followed, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw arrived here today from London, where she has been appearing with Jack Clifford in a dancing act. When told that she was being advertised on the bill-boards under the name of Thaw, the young woman who played such a big part in the trials of Harry K. Thaw for murder, declared she would not appear unless the name was taken off.

ORDER ON VIADUCT WILL BE MODIFIED SAYS COMMISSION

Rehearing of Rose Street Controversy Ordered to Make This Possible, Says John Roemer

ACTION ENTIRELY VOLUNTARY

State Official Says No Petition Was Filed by City, but Report of Engineer Shows Needed Change

ROEMER COMING TO LA CROSSE

Announced Today that He Will Be Here August 11 to Go Over Various Theories on Matter

The Wisconsin rate commission wishes to modify its original order in connection with the Rose street viaduct controversy.

To do so, under the law, it is necessary to order a rehearing. This was the announcement today of the railroad commission to city officials.

The date set for the hearing is August 11 at the city hall here and the conference of railroad, city and street railway officials will be attended by John H. Roemer, member of the railroad commission of Wisconsin.

The news that the commission wishes to change its original order is taken as nothing short of a victory for the city. The only modification that could be made, according to local officials, would be a new order apportioning the expense of the new viaduct—or whatever means of crossing may be decided upon—more equitably between the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad and the city of La Crosse.

Division Not Just

The original order, claimed City Engineer George Bradish and others, gave the railroad company the short end of the expense while the city's was far greater than it could afford.

At the meeting on August 11 it is probable that all phases of the crossing trouble will be threshed out. Viaducts, subways and various other brands of brossings will be discussed as will be the relative merits of Mill and Rose streets as crossing points.

The City of La Crosse filed no petition for a rehearing of the matter the rehearing being necessary under the law to change the order of the commission.

SCARED PACHYDERMS DEMOLISH CIRCUS

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—Half of the Sells-Floto circus was wrecked this morning, when a fierce electrical storm so affected the circus elephants that they went on o wild rampage. After breaking loose from their keepers, the big animals tore canvas from many of the tents, smased the main entrance and went through the smaller buildings in the neighborhood, reducing them to match wood. Returning they broke into the main tent and reduced the seats to splinters. The entire working force of the circus, wielding pitchforks and other weapons, was required to subdue the elephants.

The Royal Family of Russia

The perpetuation of the power of the most powerful royal family on the face of the earth, the Romanoffs, rulers of Russia, is dependent on the life of the little czarevitch, who is very sickly. All the other children of the czar are girls, and are by law barred from the throne.

This is the first photograph of the Russian royal family taken in several years, and it is one of the few permitted of the little czarevitch. A year ago he met with a mysterious accident, and since then it has been necessary most of the time for an attendant to carry him about. Nothing has been done to satisfy the public as to the character of the accident. The royal family has been very secretive about it.

FIND ADIEU FROM "CHRISTMAS SHIP"

STURGEON BAY, Wis., July 30.—A message purporting to be a farewell from the schooner Rouse Simmons, written on a piece of paper and preserved in a bottle, was found on the lake shore near Whitefish Bay by a son of Frank Lauscher, a fisherman, yesterday. The message follows:

Nov. 23, 1912.—These lines were written at 10:30 p. m., schooner Rouse Simmons ready to go down about twenty miles southeast of Twin River Point, between fifteen and twenty miles off shore. All hands lashed to the line. Goodbye.

CAPT. CHAS. NELSON.

The boy was playing on the beach when he picked up the bottle. The last message from the victims of the fatal voyage was written plainly on the torn slip.

HEAT CAUSES WELLS TO LOSE IDENTITY

NEW YORK, July 30.—Frederick B. Wells, president of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, had fully recovered today from an attack of asphasia and heat prostration he suffered yesterday. Wells' mind was absolutely blank as to how he got on the street from his room at the Waldorf-Astoria, where he was stopping with his brother Thomas and his 12-year-old son. When picked up by the police he was hatless and coatless and until he had been treated at St. Vincent's hospital could not give his name.

FACE BROKE OUT IN LITTLE PIMPLES

Red and Sore. Like Little Boils. Would Wake Up At Night and Scratch. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Three Weeks.

Falls City, Neb. — "My trouble began when I was about sixteen. My face broke out in little pimples at first. They were red and sore and then became like little boils. I picked at my face continually and it made my face red and sore looking and then I would wake up at night and scratch it. It was a source of continual annoyance to me, as my face was always red and splotched and burned all the time.

"I tried ——, —— and others, but I could find nothing to cure it. I had been troubled about two years before I found Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and tried them and I then bought some. I washed my face good with the Cuticura Soap and hot water at night and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In the morning I washed it off with the Cuticura Soap and hot water. In two days I noticed a decided improvement, while in three weeks the cure was complete." (Signed) Judd Knowles, Jan. 10, 1913.

It costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexions, red, rough hands, itching scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

By JANE OSBORN.

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It was "Boost Week" in Fays Corners. There were flags flying and bunting swaying in the breeze along the main street. A pair of plaster of Paris figures had been set up on two of the "four corners," the shrill whistle of the peanut and popcorn stand was in the air, badge and button venders had set up their stands on the curb and the streets were crowded.

The focus of the excitement centered on Fays Corners commons, a green park of two or three acres in the center of the town. Here a tent had been set up and a temporary reviewing stand, and already baby carriages were gathering in anticipation of the great event. As an opening feature of the boost week performance there was to be a baby parade. This was the idea of Silas Stebbins, the leading banker of Fays Corners, who had purchased an array of silver mugs and silver spoons and silver napkin rings as prizes for the winning specimens of babyhood.

The judges—the three prettiest girls in Fays Corners—had arrived betimes and were sitting in the "reviewing stand." One of them—the little dark-eyed one—was Mardy, Silas Stebbins' daughter. She felt herself to be the happiest girl in the world to have a father who could provide so luxuriously for his fellow townsmen. It seemed as if there never was such an event in Fays Corners.

She grew impatient waiting for the parade to begin, so she left her fellow judges and walked down the commons to the tent to see how the plans for the afternoon were progressing. There was to be a great surprise which she and her father had planned for the amusement of the small boys and girls of the place. There were to be free ice-cream cones for all the children and there was to be a real clown. Mardy had hardly been able to keep this great surprise from the other judges—her chums.

She had reached the tent and was just going in to see whether the ice-cream cone man had arrived when she saw coming toward her the clown. He was dressed in the bloomer-shaped white duck trousers, flaring white coat, enormous white shoes and white gloves. His face was painted white with red cheeks and triangle eyes—just the sort of clown that Mardy had seen at the circus and hoped would come. He walked toward her with painful strides, holding his hands uncomfortably from him and tripping over the large, clumsy shoes. Something in his very gestures was irresistibly funny.

The clown took a step toward Mardy and doffed his hat with one large gloved hand and bowed. Then, with an accent that struck Mardy as being one of untold richness, he said: "Oh, good day, am I really at all funny?"

Mardy had but to look at him again to go off into another ripple of laughter.

"It is such a relief to think I am funny," said the clown.

"Aren't you always funny?"

"Oh, my, no," said the clown; "this is the first time. That is why I feel so nervous about it—" He stopped short. "Perhaps I shouldn't have said anything about it; only when you laughed I thought perhaps you could help me. You see, I know so little about clowns, never watched one long enough to know what to do. But, you see, when the gentleman here—the banker—sent in to the city to the theatrical agency that he wanted a clown and had to have it by today, why all the clowns they had on the books were busy, and I happened to be in at the time and all there was for me to do was to take the assignment. So I went to the costumer's and got the costume. And here I am. But don't you say anything about this to the banker, if you happen to know him, about my not being a bona fide clown. That is between me and the agency entirely. But, I say, do you mind telling me what I did just now that made you laugh? I want to do it again, and if you know anything that clowns usually do, will you please tell me."

"Oh, you are so very funny," said Mardy, laughing again, "just the way you talk and walk, and—"

"Thank you, really," said the clown. "I didn't realize it."

"You might have a little snake on a string," suggested Mardy, recalling the antics of the clown at the circus she had seen. "You tie the snake to your foot with a string and then it follows you and you pretend to be afraid and the harder you run the faster it follows you. I have a paper snake I would let you have."

"Thanks, awfully," said the clown with feeling.

"And then you must try to do what other people are doing. You could pretend to wheel a baby carriage when the baby parade begins. You could have a wheel-barrow with a pig in it for the baby. I think I could lend you one of our wheelbarrows and one of our little pigs, and after that you can come up on the grandstand and pretend to help the judges to pick out the best baby."

Mardy, full of her secret, hurried home and returned with the paper snake, and her father's hired man bringing a wheel-barrow and the small pig. Then with a little rehearsing inside the tent Mardy showed the serious-minded clown how to manipulate the pig and the snake in true clown style.

Mardy hurried to the reviewing stand and forgot the clown and his secret in the serious duty of reviewing babies. Once or twice the uproarious laughter of the people, gathered in the commons, recalled to Mardy the presence of the clown and she knew that he was making a hit.

After the babies had been wheeled around before the judges once, the laughter turned into shouts of applause, and Mardy looked about to see all eyes on the clown who was coming two steps at a time into the reviewing stand with the paper snake at his heels. He sat down beside her and pretended to give her pointers about the various babies.

Then he whispered to her in impressive tones: "I have made a great success, and I have you to thank for it, and they—the people who have charge of the week here—have asked me to stay and be a part of the whole thing, to take part as I have today in all the different features."

Then the clown hurried back to the ground and went through his antics, leaving Mardy impressed with the deep, cultivated tones of his voice, so strangely unlike the foolish exterior.

For a week the clown remained in Fays Corners, always bringing a laugh wherever he went.

The last day of the boost week—when the town was strewn with confetti of the final carnival night and Mardy was sitting alone on her front porch waiting for her father to come home and tell her all the events of the day—a tall, straight, sober-faced, clean-shaven young man stepped up the front steps and walked toward her.

"I am going back to the city," he said, and then Mardy knew that it was her clown. "But before I go I want to thank you. You see I am a poor actor. I have always gone in for tragic parts. That was my ambition, but when I had a chance to make a little money being a clown I didn't hesitate to do it. Now I have made a hit in comedy—you showed me how and before I go I want to ask you—" The clown hesitated and then went on. "I have been watching you all the week and I have grown to like you better each time I looked at you. I feel I need your inspiration. You showed me how to be a success. With you to help me and show me I think I might some day become a great comedian. Anyway, I want you to promise to give me a chance to win your love."

And Mardy, because she had always dreamed in her secluded little corner in Fays Corners of the glitter of the footlights, and because from the first day that she had heard the clown's voice on the town commons she had felt drawn to its owner, told the clown that she would promise.

His Turn Coming.

"What are you going to do when you grow up, if you don't know how to read, write and cipher?" asked a school teacher of a lazy, stupid boy. "I'm going to be a schoolmaster, and make the boys do all the readin', writin' and cipherin'," replied the boy.

The Club Has Tea Parties.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Little Girls' Club Has a Picnic.

JACK had joined a little boys' club and was very proud of it.

"Why can't little girls have clubs?" Evelyn had asked enviously.

"They can if they wish," daddy had answered. "In fact, one of the most flourishing clubs I know is a little girls' club.

"I suppose I really ought not to call the members little girls, for they would not like it. Even Ruthie, who is seven and the youngest member, thinks she is quite a grownup person.

"Hannah, who is president of the club, is a model of good behavior. I wish I could say as much for Ruthie, who, by the way, is Hannah's sister. It is so hard to sit still and be quiet in club meetings when one is only seven! And then it is such fun to tease the older girls. Ruthie has been behaving beautifully since the club made her sergeant-at-arms. It is the duty of a sergeant-at-arms, you know, to make every one else be quiet.

"Every week the little girls meet at the house of a different member. Sometimes they read stories, sometimes they talk, sometimes they make doll clothes or have little tea parties.

"The little girls pay a membership fee of 2 pennies a week. Elsa, who is secretary and treasurer, takes care of the money until they have enough for some kind of a treat.

"Last week they had a picnic in Bronx park. Of course the little girls couldn't go to Bronx park all by themselves. But it was the picnic that showed them how useful it is to have an honorary member. Hannah and Ruthie's papa is an honorary member of the club. It is only when he comes to the meetings that the sergeant-at-arms has anything to do. There are times when he does cut up a lot.

"When the picnic at Bronx park was first talked of the little girls wondered who would take them. Then Ruthie thought of her papa. So the president named Ruthie and another little girl a committee to ask him to go with them.

"Ruthie's papa said of course he would go with them.

"So it was all settled, and on the first holiday he had they went to the park to spend the whole day instead of the afternoon.

"They took their luncheon with them, and out of the club fund they had spending money and enough for a ride in the park boat. There were games played on the grass, and when he went back to his office the next day Ruthie's papa told the people there all about it. So you can understand how daddy was fortunate enough to learn about it."

WILL WOMEN VOTE FOR HANDSOME MEN

"Uncle Joe" Cannon is firmly convinced that the voting women of Illinois will select the handsomest man who is running for the political offices which they have a voice in filling.

"Uncle Joe" may think he knows women. Perhaps he does know the woman of a generation ago, but he certainly does not know the woman of today or he would not make such a rash prediction.

The keen, businesslike woman who is rapidly forging to the front as the prevailing type of American femininity is not nearly as likely to be fooled by mere good looks as her grandmother was. In her personal progress to a thinking individual she has thrown off some of the womanish characreristics and has become, in her intellectual attitude at least, somewhat masculine. Men, as most of them will testify, not only have an instinctive distrust of the very handsome members of their own sex, but very often entertain a positive dislike for them that only concrete evidence that they are "good fellows" in spite of their good looks can remove. Women educated to look beneath the surface, even while appreciating an attractive exterior in itself, demand that the handsome appearance be backed up by more solid accomplishments.

The fiction that the handsome man can wreck hearts according to his own sweet will dies hard, possibly because it is so easy to believe it if we take a few isolated examples. Looking at the relations of the sexes in a broad way, however, it can be seen that plain and even homely men manage to get along with women quite as well as do their handsomer brothers. In fact, it sometimes seems that the feminine beauties more often go to men of rugged appearance—real homely chaps—than to those with superlatively good looks. The first duke of Marlborough, the great English soldier, has come down in history as the homeliest man in the England of his day, yet he swayed men and women alike by sheer force of personal charm. Smallpox had made Mirabeau look like a gorgoyle, but the power he exerted over women once got him out of prison and stood him in good stead all his life.

Some women in the suffrage states will vote for the handsomest man, but the greater number will recall the old adage, "handsome is what handsome does."

PETTY NAGGING OF A WORTHY STATESMAN

It was inevitable that when La Follette's Magazine defended Mr. Bryan's chautauqua expedition the reactionary press should insist that therein Senator La Follette, also of chautauqua fame, was speaking one word for the Nebraskan and two for himself. It matters not to these papers that the Wisconsin senator has set such unusual examples of integrity—precedents, by the way—as declining to cast a vote upon a matter in which he was even remotely interested as an individual. Nor did it matter that La Follette's defense of Mr. Bryan is conclusive, that it annihilates the adverse critics of the secretary of state. The argument wastes no words; it is contained complete in the following paragraphs:

"Secretary Bryan is the subject of a violent outburst of criticism because he is filling a number of lecture engagements contracted for before he became a member of President Wilson's cabinet.

"The country has confidence in the integrity of Mr. Bryan and it is not ready to believe that he will cheat the government on his services. To do his work as secretary he ought to take some time for recreation from the onerous and exacting duties of his great office. Every president and every cabinet officer leaves Washington for a few weeks during the heated term. One goes to Oyster Bay, another to Berkeley, another to Cornish, another to Yellowstone Park, another to the seashore.

"Mr. Bryan goes to the Chautauqua platform. It is his recreation. It is no discredit to him that he finds vast audiences eager to pay to hear his inspiring oratory. His lectures are not partisan. He is a great preacher. Every man and woman, boy and girl who hears him is the better for it.

"He is entitled to spend his vacation time as best suits him. He will not neglect the duties of his important office for any personal advantage."

In a word, for having planned to spend his vacation by working in the cities rather than playing on some beach, Mr. Bryan subjects himself to the charge that he is a wicked and slothful servant.

Sixty-four bible schools have been opened in Philadelphia. If it was in Chicago the ward bosses would license them for revenue.

Some men grow better by comparing themselves with better men while others improve through new police regulations.

Amusement In Pauses

Dr. P. S. Henson once delivered his lecture on "Fools" at the New York Chautauqua. In introducing him, Bishop Vincent said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are now to listen to a lecture on 'Fools,' by one"—the audience broke into a roar of laughter and after it had died away Bishop Vincent added—"of the most brilliant men in America."

Dr. Henson rose and, with a genial smile, said: "Ladies and gentlemen. I am not so great a fool as Bishop Vincent"—another roar of laughter, after which the speaker added—"would make you believe."—Judge.

Would Give the Signal

Poor little Potts strained his head in vain endeavor to see the stage. The immobile back and great head of the man in front of him completely hid his view.

By a most uncomfortable contortion he just managed to see some scenery occasionally by peeping over the man's shoulder. Suddenly the big man turned. "What's the matter, matey; can't you see anything?" he asked.

"Can't even see a streak of the stage through you," murmured little Potts, pathetically.

The big man grinned sarcastically.

"Ah, well, son, just keep your eye on me and laugh when I do."

The Fatal Day Was Near

"Charles seems to be very exacting," said a fond mamma to the dear girl who was dressing for the wedding.

"Never mind, mamma," said she sweetly. "They are his last wishes."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

A Wanderer's Song

Once more to see familiar stars
Look down through friendly trees—
Once more to feel the heart of youth
With May across the seas!
Once more to see the hyacinth
Press upward through the grass.
To hear the plowboy's tuneless song
Above the furrows pass.
In dreams the willows silver along the rising streams,
In dreams the shining valley puts on her spring tide gleams!

Once more to breathe the lilac plumes
In gusts of April rain—
To linger with the violets
In a forgotten lane; * * *

I'd give the dawns of almond bloom,
The orange and the rose—
The misty olive terraces
Of shadowy repose—
I'd give the nightingale and palm
And wander-joys like these—
Just to go back to spring's old throb
And old infinities.
In dreams my heart is straying with May across the seas.
In dreams my heart and May are one in vagrant ecstasies!
—Martha Gilbert Dickinson Bianchi

Freshies

"Ah!" said the visitor in the college town, noticing the long file of young men parading about the campus. "Some raw recruits?"

"Yes and no," explains the resident. "They're what you might call rah-rah recruits."—Judge.

More Important

Mr. Dustin did not approve of his son's choice of a wife, and was trying to persuade him to see things as he did.

"Yes, you are quite right, father," said the son. "Mabel has her defects, she is vain, full of pretensions and grand ideas, with a very difficult character. But, father, in spite of all, I simply adore her. I can't live without her."

"But that is not the question, my boy," said the father. "Can you live with her?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Progress

Burglar—Last time you defended me you only charged me $40!

Lawyer—That was five years ago, when you were a struggling young burglar. Now that you have "arrived," you must pay more!

A Lingual Strain

A boy who had been absent from school for several days returned with his throat carefully and presented this note to his teacher:

"Please don't let my son learn any German today, his throat is so sore he can hardly speak English."—Everybody's Magazine.

Far Distant Feet

"I visited President Lincoln one day," said Gen. Wilson, "with my brother-in-law.

"A few days later I visited the president again with my brother-in-law, Senator Dixon of Connecticut, and a constituent of his who was 6 feet 10 inches tall. Well, we met and for the first and perhaps the only time in his life the president was flabbergasted by the sight of a man looking down on him by six inches.

"Finaly his face was overspread by that lovely smile of his and he said, 'My friend, will you permit me to ask you a question?'

"'Why, certainly, Mr. President,' the man answered.

"'I want to know,' said Mr. Lincoln, 'if you can tell when your feet get cold.'"

Retired Georgia Planter's Advice to Kidney Sufferers

Regarding the wonderful curative merits of your Swamp-Root, I cannot say too much. After suffering severely for three years or more with severe pains caused by weak kidneys, I was finally induced to try Swamp-Root through a testimonial I read in one of the newspapers. I was in such a condition that I was obliged to arise from my bed six or eight times every night. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and before it was used I felt so much relief that I purchased a one-dollar bottle and by the time this was taken the old pains had left my back and I could sleep the whole night through. I am a retired planter, 70 years of age, and owing to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. I am in the best of health and fell like a boy. I am always glad to recommend Swamp-Root to those who are in need of it.

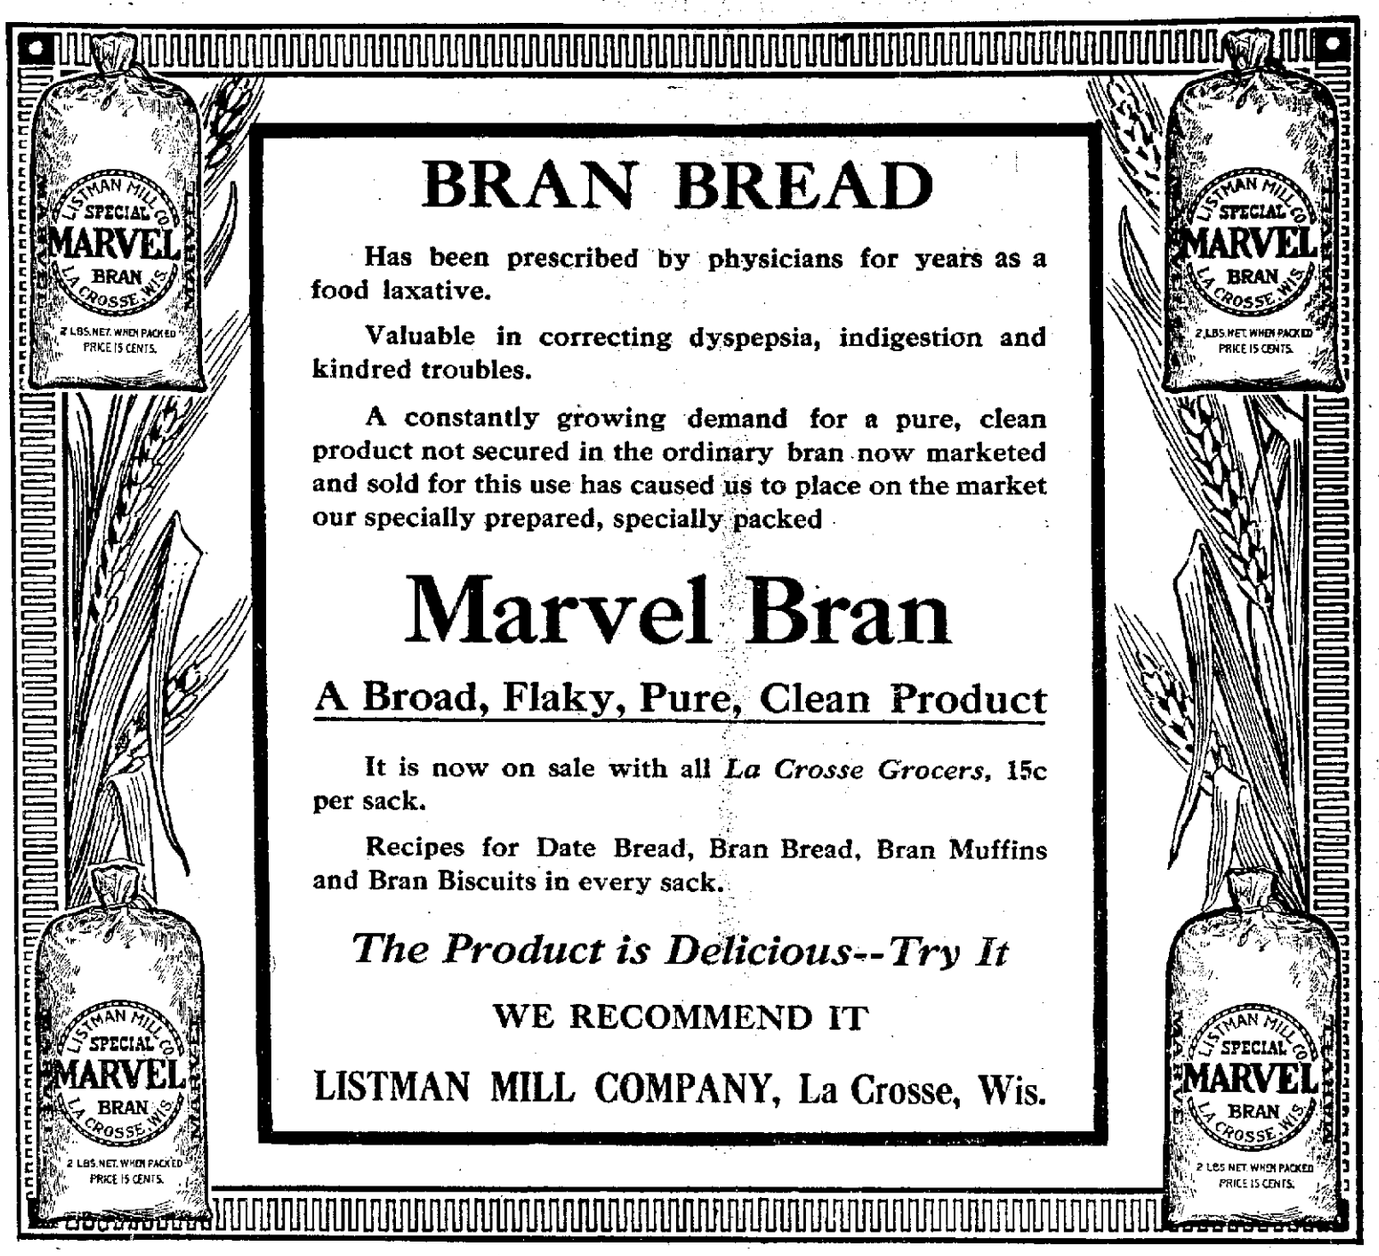

Sincerely yours,

A MYSTERY STORY OF NEW YORK

By Will Irwin

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

Miss Estrilla, expressionless behind her green shade, spoke in an even and unemotional voice.

"And what do your spirits say to you?"

"To me?" replied Rosalie; "goodness, I don't know. I wish I did. That was always a curious thing about my mediumship. You see, there's every kind. Some folks are clairaudient. They hear things while they're wide awake. Some are clairvoyant in half trance. That means they see, an' they know all the time what they've seen and what they're sayin'. I'm the worst kind. I never could get a thing except in a full trance—jest like I was asleep. I have to find afterwards from other people what I said or did. Well, I'm as sorry as can be that I bothered you, an' won't do it again, if I can help it. Did I talk much?"

"Anybody in the house? Sometimes—they tell me—my spirits talk about folks a thousand miles away an' sometimes about folks that are right here."

Miss Estrilla seemed to be considering this. When she spoke, her voice was still even and perfectly controlled; but she did not answer the question.

"You have been very kind," she said, "and I don't see why you should tell any one else. You may come here whenever you feel that way. It would be a pleasure to return your kindness."

Rosalie sighed as in relief.

"My! That's good. I didn't want to ask—it's a lot to ask of anybody—but now you've offered, I'll take it. I've been thinkin' lately it would be a good thing to let go of myself when I feel it comin', an' get it off my system. Was that the bell? Excuse me—I ain't sure that lazy Molly will answer it. An' thank you, my dear."

The bell was only a pedler. When Rosalie had disposed of him, she consulted her watch. Much remained of the afternoon; and the house was still deserted.

"Good time to git an hour's session with that darned phonograph," she said: and she took refuge in her own big clothes-closet—which, experiment had shown, was soundproof.

CHAPTER X.
A Lone Hand.

Martin McGee waited to keep his latest appointment with Rosalie Le Grange on a bench in Stuyvesant Fish Park, dead center for the Hebrew population in New York. Before and behind him a regiment of children swarmed over horizontal bars or made loud play with park swings. On the benches to right and left sat a crowd of squalid loafers, most of whom would have shuffled away into the dives and alleys of the East Side had they known that this florid stalwart gentleman in the plain gray suit was a high policeman. On the fringes of his vision Yiddish housewives bargained with push-cart pedlers. It was all very lively, very alien—and very odorous. Martin McGee speculated lazily and with some amusement upon the habits of Rosalie Le Grange—so much her own, yet so well conceived for her purposes. For example, this method of holding business conferences on secret affairs—for she always set her appointments in Stuyvesant Fish Park, or some other out-of-the-way open space. It was a highly original, highly effective plan. One could enter without attracting attention; one could watch the approaches; a meeting in a public park—grant that it were discovered in such a remote part of the city—could be passed off as an accidental encounter, not a conference. That was one of the thousand ways in which her mind thought faster and further than his. He felt even a shade of jealousy as he dwelt upon her. With that ripple in the pool of his thoughts came another disturbed feeling. How was he to meet her after what had happened three days ago in the hallway of Mrs. Moore's old house? The thing had been an explosion of emotion, beyond control of will. Martin McGee did not put it so. "It got away with me" was how he expressed it to himself.

Martin McGee was approaching fifty, the second period of sentiment in man. In the lusty summer of his days, he had wooed—and lost. She had chosen the other arm of municipal warfare and married a fireman. Since then woman had cut but a shadowy figure in his bachelor life. And here, in his middle age, the face and figure, the form and move of a woman was playing hide-and-seek among his thoughts of police duty and police privilege. He recognized even a certain embarrassment over the coming meeting like that of a youth who has been slapped by a perky girl. Only one fact gave him satisfaction. Her cold withdrawal from him, her genuine indignation, settled finally—to his enchanted mind—certain surmises concerning one element in the character of Rosalie Le Grange. This, however, raised up a regiment of disturbing thoughts. She had been a professional medium; and a medium was a half-crook; it wasn't respectable. With the perverse yearning of one who has passed his life among disreputabilities, Martin McGee loved respectability in woman. And—

"How do you do?" said a voice beside him; and Rosalie's self settled down on the park bench.

He looked at her without rising, his first thought to read in those eyes of her, which mirrored so many emotions, her attitude toward him. The eyes were laughing!

"How do you do" he repeated after her. And then, as though he must be out with it:

"Say, I guess there's an apology coming from me."

"If there is," said Rosalie, "there is one coming from about every man I ever knew. It's the way of the animal. It's a kind of a left-handed compliment to the lady though."

Martin McGee, a little unaccustomed since his philandering days to the slender arrows of feminine attack, winced at this subtle variation of the common, "you're just like all the rest." It stuck full to the shaft; and in a tender and unInured spot.

"This was different," said he.

"So they all say!" said she. But she was smiling, and her expression, while it held amusement, was warm and mellow. "Now let's overlook little things. I've come to talk business. I'm busting with it." She glanced to right and left, taking in a faded "black hood" of a woman, a sodden "panhandler" of a man. "I guess we'd better walk," she said. They rose and threaded the push-carts, the crowds, the confusion and smells, toward the river.

"Now I'm playing a lone hand," she began. "If things go wrong, I've only myself to blame; an' if they go right, you get all the credit—as usual. I want help an' no questions asked. This Black-hand outfit of dago detectives—what have you got that you can lend me?"

"You want—"

"A detective from the dago squad. I want him straight an' I want him quick an' I want him for my own—he reports to me, not to you."

Proved Worth of Invention.

"Shortly after Galvani's invention came out he visited America, and with a latter of introduction called upon Dr. Doane, medical officer to the Bank of New York," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle. "He found the family in distress at the death of the infant son. Galvani asked to be allowed to try his battery; the child revived and was christened Galvani Doane. His father was a cousin of Longfellow."

Occasional Visitors.

A story Harry Lauder told was about an old Scotch gamekeeper who was being questioned by a dather inquisitive visitor who paid occasional visits to the neighborhood, and wanted to know all about the size and value of the estate.

"Are there many deer on the place?" was one of his questions.

"Hundreds, sir!" was the gamekeeper's reply

"Many hares?" the other went on.

"Thousands, sir!" the gamekeeper answered.

"Is that so? Well, now; are there many gorillas?" the visitor asked satirically.

The gamekeeper hesitated for a moment, then he said:

"Well, sir; they—they come noo an' then—just like yersel'!"

Essay on the Human Hair.

Under the microscope human hair is a more or less complex and very variable tissue. In size, shape and masonry (it is a sort of concrete structure) as well as color there is more or less variation of detail. Architecturally curly hair differs from the straight variety; kinky hair has a special construction of its own which explains the kinks; there's a reason, apparent under the revealing eye of the microscope, for the black, red, silky, and all other varieties.

NORTH SIDE MAN CATCHES THIEF

FOSTER CHASES BURGLAR IN VAIN

Lee B. Hampton, 1725 Wood street, a conductor on the Burlington railroad, foiled an attempt at petty robbery by William McLaughlin Monday morning when he tried to take two parasols from the back porch of Mr. Hampton's residence. Mr. Hampton caught and held the thief until his wife telephoned for the police.

Had it not been for the fact that Mr. Hampton is an early riser, McLaughlin would probably not have been caught. The man was noticed walking down Wood street at about 5:30. He knocked on the door of a neighbor, it is thought by the police, in the endeavor to beg food. Not finding anyone home, he walked to Mr. Hampton's residence. After making an inspection of the side and back yard he sat down on the back porch.

Mr. Hampton was watching him and when he took the two parasols ran out of the house and caught him.

A strange man attempted to force an entrance into the home of A. Foster, 1603 Charles street last night at 11 o'clock, but left when Mr. Foster bolted out of the front door of the house and ran after him.

The family had retired for the night just a few minutes, when Mrs. Foster was disturbed by a scratching noise on the screen door at the side of the house. Listening for a few minutes she distinctly heard someone breathing. She called her husband who investigated. On account of the warm night the doors and windows had been left open, although the screen door was hooked.

Mr. Foster made out the form of a man kneeling at the door, and ran to the front door. As he ran out in the yard the man ran, and although Mr. Foster chased him for a time, he was not caught. The police are looking for the man today.

GLOBE-TROTTER TO WHIZ THROUGH CITY

J. H. Means Breaking the World-circling Record to Pass La Crosse on August 5

John Henry Means, New York globe trotter, will pass through La Crosse Tuesday morning, August 5, at 3:45 on the Olympian, one of the fastest trains on the Milwaukee railroad, in his record breaking trip around the world.

Means started from New York city July 2 on the Mauretania, under contract with a New York evening newspaper, to break all previous records for fast travel around the world. The total time of the trip will consume 35 days, 21 hours and 35 minutes.

The globe trotter will reach Victoria, B. C., on the Empress Russia August 2, and will be rushed to Seattle on a fast steam yacht. Arrangements have been made in Seattle by officials of the Milwaukee railroad to rush him across the city to catch the Olympian.

All along the route of the Milwaukee between Chicago and Seattle arrangements have been made to have the trains on time, and the best men used to run them in order to aid the traveler in every way possible. A notice received this morning in the North side offices of the company requested officials here to have trains running like clock work while Means is on the road.

OFFICIALS FROLIC AT ANNUAL PICNIC

HIGBEE FAILS TO MAKE TEAM

Blessed with ideal picnic weather and with practically every man connected with the city's government on the grounds the annual outing of the city officials at Dresden park Tuesday was a success in every detail.

While the sun poured down with heat unusual, the generosity of certain manufacturers of liquids eased the situation considerably and no prostrations were recorded—all despite the fact that an occasional water plant argument went many degrees above white heat.

The party was conveyed to the grounds in big launches early in the morning and immediately after being deposited there started the athletic events.

A ball game between the city officials and aldermen in which the latter were victorious by a score so overwhelming that Scorekeeper Fred Easton refused to give it out, was one of the features of the day.

J. E. Higbee, city attorney, was put in the box for the officials and it was his inexcusable work that lost the game, claims Mayor Ort Sorensen. Higbee knocked all over the lot, was taken out in the fourth and put in as catcher while Joe Frisch twirled. As a catcher Higbee was not an Archer and again he was taken out, this time for good. But his removal came too late, the aldermen had hammered in enough runs to last two or three games.

Alderman Joe Bartl was the star stick artist for the aldermen, driving in three runs and making a "homer" at a critical point. Frank Kohn is alleged to have made a home run. No one could be found who was willing to stand for this statement.

About noon a splendid dinner, prepared under the direction of Chef Walter Stannard, was served. Although the various dishes were not inspected by Health Commissioner Furstmann, they were consumed with surprising rapidity.

A genuine German band added life to the occasion whenever they could be persuaded to play.

Alderman Lang entertained the "Mayor of Dresbach" and, it is said, entered into a lengthy discussion with him on the relative merits of sloe gin and Gordon gin rickies. The argument was still in progress when the party, tired but happy, started the return trip for La Crosse.

The city officials and aldermen were a unit in declaring the affair to be one of the best ever held.

STATE REGULATIONS OF MOTOR VEHICLES

New Rules for Speed and for Passing Other Vehicles on the Road

SIRENS ARE NOW ILLEGAL

Driver Who Fails to Stop at Accidents Liable to a Fine or Even Jail

MADISON, Wis., July 30. — The actual changes in the laws governing the operation of automobiles and motorcycles, made by the 1913 legislatude, are not so important as the public has been led to believe, through reading of bills introduced which failed and the various debates upon them. Some of the generally recognized rules of the road have been framed into laws.

Thus the Martin bill 389-S, which hasn't yet been printed or numbered, prescribes that drivers of motor vehicles must pass vehicles going in opposite direction to the right, and pass those overtaken to the left, giving always half the traveled highway. At road or street intersections the driver has the right of way over all vehicles from the left, except at city corners where there is a policeman stationed to regulate traffic.

When a street car is actually taking on or discharging passengers the driver must stop to avoid accident.

In meeting or passing any other vehicle on a road less than twenty feet in width speed must be reduced to fifteen miles an hour or less.

Lights must be displayed from thirty minutes after sunset to thirty minutes before sunrise.

All motor machines must use improved mufflers and within the corporation limits of city or village these must not be cut out. No siren horn can be used except on hospital vans or police or firemen vehicles.

Chapter 103 amends the present statutes to provide that no motor vehicle may run through a cemetery or park, or pass a school where persons are or may be in the highway at a speed exceeding eight miles an hour.

Chapter 138 makes it unlawful for any motor vehicle to be run at a speed exceeding ten miles an hour while within 150 feet of or passing another vehicle going in either direction on a single road highway.

Chapter 310 authorizes any common council or village board to license operators of motor vehicles, and to require that no unlicensed person shall drive, for hire, any such vehicle. Any person who does such work for hire, however, shall not be obliged to take out such license until he has been in the city or village five days.

Chapter 576 provides that any person operating a motor vehicle of any kind, and who has injured any person and therewith fails to stop and give his name and address, and the name and address of the owner of the machine to any bystander, who shall so request on behalf of the injured person, shall be guilty of a felony and may be fined not to exceed $1,000 or be imprisoned not less than three months nor more than two years.

Chapter 602 provides that from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunrise every motor or similar vehicle shall carry a reasonable bright light in front and a red tail light; and it shall be unlawful for the driver of such vehicle to drive at such speed that his machine cannot be brought to a complete stop within the distance ahead that the driver can with the aid of his light, in connection with light from other sources see an object the size of a person.

Thought Window Was a "Movie."

At the general assembly of the Presbyterians in Edinburgh a home mission deputy told this story to illustrate the part the picture theater plays in a modern child's life. A little girl, being taken to church by her mother, viewed a stained-glass window for a minute or two. "Ma," she asked, "when are they going to change the picture?"

Entirely a Personal Matter.

Mark Twain and his peculiarities were being discussed by an English class in a western high school. One youthful orator had very eloquently described Mark's personal appearance and had laid unusual stress on the author's fondness for wearing white flannel. "Gee!" said one much interested youth. "I don't see how the public knows whether his flannels was red or white."—Everybody's Magazine.

To Stop Scaling of Psoriasis

A lady in Lexington, Ky., says that before she began using S. S. S. the disease broke out at frequent intervals where she thought it cured. But by getting her blood under control by the influence of S. S. S., psoriasis entirely disappeared and there was never again the slightest sign of it.

Like nearly all skin diseases, psoriasis is primarily due to impaired blood.

The skin is but a network of fine blood vessels. And it is a perfectly natural consequence that any influence in the blood that is a condition of ill health makes its first appearance in the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from this fine network of blood vessels in the skin, those elements which it requires for regeneration.

Thus pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin, is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

This is why skin troubles vanish so readily and why they do not return.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. Take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 182 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

EXPECT VIOLENCE IN MINE STRIKE

Miners Are Bitter and Trouble Is Feared; Militiamen Refuse to Oppose Strikers

CALUMET, Mich., July 30.—Unless immediate steps are taken to bring about a settlement of the copper miners' strike, which has been on here for the past two weeks, it was considered certain this morning that the bitterness of the strikers would culminate in widespread violence.

As a result of fights last night between non-union men and strikers, the two men were seriously hurt and seven others badly bruised.

Telegrams were received last night and today by strike leaders from Governor Ferris, who proposes a conference of strikers and operators at Lansing.

Two members of the militia are in the Houghton county jail for refusing to join the guard in doing duty against the strikers. Both are union men.

BUSINESS MEN TO PUT ON CHAUTAUQUA

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 30.—Beginning August 3 and continuing for five days the Redpath Vawter company will put on a chautauqua course at McGregor. A tent accommodating several thousand will be erected in Turner park near the river. Extensive advertising has been done through the eastern part of Clayton county and big crowds seem assured. The program includes as musical attractions Victor's Italian band, the Mendelssohn quartet, the Dunbar Singing orchestra, H. Ruthven McDonald and the Lilliputian singers. Addresses will be given by Governor Robert S. Vessey of South Dakota, Albert L. Blair, George R. Laird, Arthur K. Peck and Chaplain Laugher. The Seton Indian work modeled after the Indian of Leatherstocking fame will be a special feature for the entertainment of the children. The chautauqua is given under the direction of the McGregor Business Men's association. The members are endeavoring to make it a big success with a view to holding annual chautauquas.

CHARGES MASSACRE TO GEN. PERSHING

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. — That 1,600 Moros were slain by American troops during the recent battle of Bagsag, in the Philippines, was the story brought here today by passengers from the orient who arrived on the liner Persia. They declare no quarter was given the natives who used women and children as shields against American bullets.

John McLean, a civil employe of the United States quartermaster in Manila, declared General Pershing, in charge of the Moro expedition, maintained a strict censorship and arrested newspaper men who tried to get the details of the Bagsag engagement.

The details were horrible, said McLean. The Moros making their last stand, were shot down to a man. When the Americans made their final assault on the Moro position in the center of an extinct volcano, he said, many of the natives held women and children in front of them. In this way 196 women and 349 children were shot to pieces.

Reminders of Limerick Siege.

Near a battle scene during the siege of Limerick, in 1691, workmen while excavating discovered a quantity of human remains recently. A bullet hole was observed in one skull, and on examination a bullet was found embedded in the bone.

GRAND JURY PROBES MULHALL'S STORY

WASHINGTON, July 30. — It was reported at the capitol this afternoon that the grand jury was investigating the "confession of Col. M. M. Mulhall," former lobbyist for the N. A. M., in connection with charges of perjury made by ex-Congressman James E. Watson of Indiana. It was reported that Watshon was a witness before the grand jury.

STRANGE AND COOK FOR SENATE SEAT?

Political Students Claim that Neenah Men Plan Entering Big Race for Toga in Two Years

SITUATION MORE COMPLICATED

Morris Is First in Field and Believed to Be Strongest; Governor May Decide to Enter Race

Followers of state politics are interested in the story, to the effect that former Lieutenant Governor John Strange and S. A. Cook, both of Neenah, Wis., will enter the political race for the Republican United States senatorial nomination. Mayor Ori Sorensen, returning from Neenah says their candidacy is common talk there.

In the event these two gentlemen do enter the situation at the next state election will be extremely complicated.

Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris, La Crosse, was the first to declare his intention of making the run and is the man who will get the undivded support of the entire La Follette or progressive wing of the republican party.

Governor Francis E. McGovern had designs on the seat now held by Isaac Stephenson but his continued failure to make an announcement leads to the theory that his excellency plans to run again for governor making the marketing bill, killed by the assembly, his platform.

Mr. Strange was Lieutenant Governor of Wisconsin for two terms. Mr. Cook was a candidate for the senatorial nomination against La Follette.

PROBE SALE OF BONDS

NEW YORK, July 30.—The charge of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo that New York banks were conspiring to defeat the currency bill resulted today in the summoning of E. A. Manice, of the Stock exchange firm of E. A. Manice & Co., to appear before the committee on business conduct of the exchange. Manice will be asked to explain the sale last Saturday of $25,000 in government two per cent bonds on twenty days delivery.

At the time this sale was made there was a suspicion that the broker was selling "short" but Manice declared he was acting for himself and had no customer. It has developed that the National City bank purchased the bonds. Wall street has seized upon this fact as its main point in the denial of McAdoo's statement that the banks are selling bonds in an effort to depress prices. The government twos reached a new low price in selling at 95½.

WANT MRS. YOUNG TO KEEP HER JOB

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young.

Plans for a huge mass meeting of women to protest against the resignation of Mrs. Ella Flagg Young as superintendent of Chicago's public schools were set on foot as soon as it became generally known that Mrs. Young had decided to give up the position.

PANKHURST VANISHES

LONDON, July 30.—No attempt was being made today by the police to find Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, though it was known that she had disapeared from her flat and gone into seclusion somewhere outside of London. Suffragettes at her flat refuse to say where she has gone, but said that she was slowly recovering her health and would soon reappear in public in London.

Mary Wyah, who went on a hunger strike until she was weak and sick from starvation, inaugurated a new kind of strike by refusing to leave Holloway jail on a ticket of leave. She vowed she would remain in prison until released unconditionally and sat on the steps of a hospital until early today, after the prison officials sent her there in an ambulance. Sylvia Pankhurst continued her sleep strike last night and today was in a very serious condition.

LIVERPOOL, July 30. — Mrs. Edith Rigsby, the suffragette who confessed that she burned the home of Sir W. H. Lever and also planted the bomb that damaged the Liverpool Stock exchange today, was sentenced to nine months in prison at hard labor. She is the wife of a physician of Preston.

M'GREGOR MAN DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

M'GREGOR, Iowa, July 30.—The community was greatly shocked today when word came over the wire that John F. McMichael had been killed in an automobile accident near Denver and would be brought to McGregor for burial on Thursday. While returning to Denver from Morrison, Col., last evening in his car in the company of three friends, the auto skidded over the bank of Bear creek and turning turtle pinned Mr. McMichael under it, drowning him in five feet of water. The three companions were thrown clear of the machine and escaped uninjured.

The young man was born and raised in McGregor, going to Denver to live but a few years ago. He was a grandson of J. Flemming, one of the best known and wealthiest lumbermen on the upper river in early days. While he was yet a small boy his mother, eldest daughter of Mr. Flemming, died, and shortly afterward his father, W. T. McMichael. Since then he has lived with his father's parents, first at McGregor and later at Denver. He has been a student at Dartmouth college the past two years. He was heir to an estate of half a million which he would have received on coming of age next February.

CONVALESCENT DIES IN SUDDEN ATTACK

Stricken with embolism, or blood clotting, when he was considered on the high road to recovery, George Harter, 24, of Locust, Iowa, died at 6:15 yesterday evening, an hour and a quarter after the disease set in. Death occurred at the Lutheran hospital here.

Harter was severely injured in a runaway while mowing hay on a farm near Locust three weeks ago. He was thrown out and caught by the sickle bar of the mower. His leg was crushed.

Harter was brought to La Crosse at once, and his leg was adjusted by Dr. Christiansen immediately. He was convalescing rapidly, and had expected to be out of the hospital in five weeks.

Harter's parents are in Germany. They have been sent for, and the body will be kept in the undertaking parlors of Fessler and Dahl until they arrive, when the funeral will be held.

THOUSANDS ATTEND GROCERS' PICNIC

Intense Heat Fails to Discourage Citizens Who Flock to Myrick Park Throughout Day

SOUTH SIDE WINS BALL GAME

North Side Clerks in a Hot Contest Lose Big Game; Various Events on Program for Big Day

While the city sweltered in a 91 above temperature fully 3,000 people from all parts of the city gathered in Myrick park to join with the retail grocers of the city in their fourteenth annual picnic. Following the parade af the early morning a steady stream poured into the park from street cars, automobiles and carriages and many coming on foot from nearby. By noon a record breaking crowd had gathered.

Lunches Prominent

Lunch baskets were in prominence. Families scattered out under the shade of trees to escape the rays of the sun. Three booths where you could purchase anything that the heart desired in the way of refreshments on the dry order, popcorn, peanuts, etc., were well patronized. A. A. Anderson had charge of booth No. 1, with nine able assistants. C. Wenzel with the same number of assistants manned the second booth, while J. J. Hammes with fifteen helpers endeavored to satisfy the hunger and thirst of the large aggregation in booth No. 3.

At 10 o'clock in the morning the grocery clerks of the north side lined up against the clerks of the south side in a ball game, which ended in the close decision of 9 to 12 in favor of the south siders. Prizes, consisting of sacks of flour, cigars and fancy brooms ,were awarded the lucky players.

Games in Afternoon

Seventeen competition games for all ages were participated in during the afternoon. Following is the list: Girls' foot race, boys' foot race, ball throwing into a banana crate, boys' hobble sack race, foot race, grocer clerks only; young ladies' foot race, tug of war between north and south side grocer clerks, apple eating contest, cake eating contest, peanut race, married ladies' foot race, foot races for girls and boys under 8 years of age, women's tug of war, fat men's foot race, nail driving contest, foot race for ladies over 25 years of age. Prizes for first, second and third places in all the races were awarded.

Featuring the games were the two tugs of war participated in by both men and women.

"Everywhere was Harry Taggart at once," said someone. From the time the first persons arrived at the park Mr. Taggart was there, shaking hands with everybody and straightening out this and that.

The donation of prizes given to winners of games were made by wholesale grocery concerns doing business with the La Crosse retail stores. The chairmen of the picnic offered a vote of thanks to these contributors in behalf of the grocers of the city.

Knew His Master's Politics.

During a general election in England a canvasser called at the house of the late Prof. Froude, the historian. Mr. Froude was out, so the canvasser interrogated the butler as to how Mr. Froude would vote. The butler—an old servant who understood his master well—replied: "When the liberals is in Mr. Froude is sometimes a conservative. When the conservatives is in Mr. Froude is always a liberal."

Visiting Cook.

An English girl has adopted the profession of visiting cook, and will devote herself to teaching the indispensable art. She believes that "if kitchens were beautiful, and not the stuffy, stodgy dungeons that they so often are, and that if women dressed for their work in them with the care that they dress for a ball, cooking would no longer be regarded as drudgery and a monotonous business."

Trees and Lightning.

The electrical resistance of trees is quite great, a quality which protects them to a considerable degree from lightning stroke. This resistance varies greatly with the character of the tissues and also with the temperature. This fact results in an annual and daily period of resistance. The cambium layer shows the least electrical resistance, followed by the phloem and sapwood.

World Beyond Our Ken.

There are noises louder than thunder which we cannot hear, the roar that lies on the other side of silence. We men are poor, restless prisoners, hemmed in by our senses as by the wall of a cell, hearing only a part of Nature's orchestra and that part imperfectly; seeing only a thousandth part of the color marvels about us and seeing that infinitesimal part incorrectly and partially.—From "Unpathed Waters," by Frank Harris.

GLEN L. MARTIN DOES SOME NICE NEW STUNTS IN HIS LITTLE FLYING BOAT

Glen L. Martin in Machine.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—The merger of the Missouri Pacific, Rio Grande and Western Pacific railroadsinto a single system is planned by Benjamin F. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific, according to reports here today.

The Missouri Pacific owns the Rio Grande railroad, which controls the Western Pacific, first step in the merger, it is said, will be the combining of the tow latter roads, with a view to their ultimate absorption by the Missouri Pacific. Bush will leave here tomorrow for St. Louis.

CAMINETTI AND DIGGS DENY GUILT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Maury I. Diggs and Drew Caminetti today appeared before United States District Judge Van Fleet and pleaded not guilty to the charge of conspiracy to take Lola Norris and Martha Warrington of Sacramento out of the state for immoral purposes.

The court announced that the trial of Diggs would begin next Tuesday, Caminetti's trial immediately following.

After the disposal of this case, Diggs and Attorney Harris, his counsel, pleaded not guilty to a charge of subordination of perjury.

Their motion for separate trials was denied. This trial will follow immediately after the Diggs and Caminetti white slavetrials.

Doubly Painted.

Of yore portrait painters tried to make women look as if they had exquisite natural complexions; now some of the new ilk make them look more than painted.

Morning of Life.

Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting sun be to you as its close; then let every one of these short lives leave its sure record of some kindly thing done for others, some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourselves.—John Ruskin.

STORM STOPS SESSION

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A violent storm with a deluge of rain, striking electrical display and a shower of hailstones, many as big as walnuts, broke here shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon. The din was so terrific at the capitol that the senate had to recess for twenty minutes, Majority Leader Kern being almost unable to make his voice heard. It was as dark as night.

The Line of March

Following the commission came the police marching in compact order, followed by Andre's band. Next were the city council and city officials, the board of trade, county officials, progressive league, retail grocers' association, merchants' association and professional men.

Then came the children—an army of them. They marched with precision, conscious that a great event was in progress, their bright, clean clothing and smiling, animated faces presenting a glowing picture. Seldom have generals led a grander army than that of Messrs. Dunn and Raymond.

Next the long line of floats came into sight. There were many attractive designs, and the entire butchers' association, of which Lieutenant Fleis is secretary, were represented by floats. The others were those of individual firms, and the section made a fine showing.

The automobiles passed, seemingly in endless procession. They presented a fine suggestion of the wealth and prosperity of La Crosse.

Many Visitors in City

Many visitors from outside the city were present, and an interesting feature of the parade was a little bunch of marchers representing our sister city of Tomah.

The unions were largely represented, although their members were pretty widely scattered throughout the parade. The men in a number of factories where rush work had been expected to detain them participated, leaving the plants but partly manned.

Hundred of people who were waiting along the eastern portion of Main street and on North Twelfth street, expecting to see the parade, were disappointed because the procession practically disbanded upon reaching Sixth street.

Taggart Thanks Public

"On behalf of the grocers, I want to thank all who participated," said Mr. Taggart. "It was more of an undertaking than lots of people supposed, and without the co-operation of hundreds of wide-awake citizens it could not have succeeded."

Noble Mr. Winks!

"I was a fool ever to marry you," sobbed Mrs. Winks. "Now, my dear," said Mr. Winks, nobly, "I cannot permit you to take the blame for that. It was I who was the fool for ever asking you. The mistake was not yours, but mine."—Harper's Weekly.

True Courtesy.

Lady (at piano)—"They say you love good music." Youth—"Oh, that doesn't matter. Pray go on."

MARRIAGE LAWS MORE STRINGENT

HEREAFTER MUST SWEAR TO AGES

Physician's Certificate Necessary to Procure Permit; Many Other Changes Made

MADISON, Wis., July 30.—Are you thinking of getting married? If you are a man there are some conditions which have to be met before you can get a license in Wisconsin that make the function a more serious matter than it would have been a month ago. The legislature enacted four laws which bear directly upon the marriage contract.

Chapter 219 provides that applicants for a license to marry shall declare before an officer authorized to administer oaths, and sign and verify in the presence of two subscribing witnesses they are legal age; that neither of them has been divorced by a decree of any Wisconsin court within one year prior to the date of the application; that neither is insane, idiotic or epileptic and is not within the prohibited degree of consanguinity, that is they must not be more closely related than second cousins.

Chapter 324 specifies the grounds upon which a judge may waive the five days required by law between the granting of the license, and the marriage ceremony. If he has satisfactory evidence either party is critically ill and likely to die; that the woman is pregnant or if the parent or guardian of the woman makes request. Persons applying for the waiver of five days must have resided in the state at least thirty days. When the waiver order is issued by the court, it must be given to the person officiating as his evidence of right to perform the ceremony.

The last and most important of the bills passed affecting the marriage contract got through at 2 o'clock in the morning of last Saturday. It is the Richards bill, which has not yet been signed by the governor. This bill was prepared and strongly urged by Senator Hoyt, Waukesha, who is a physician.

It provides that any man making application for a license to marry must, before he can get the license, present a certificate showing that within fifteen days prior to the date of the application he had submitted to an examination by a regularly licensed physician.

This bill had a rough road to enactment but it deserves to be classed among the mast important measures of the session.

SEA LION ESCAPES AND ELUDES SCORE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 30—A sea lion on Tuesday took up its abode in historic Minnehaha falls at the City park of the same name. Hours of hard work and keen strategy of twenty men failed to effect the capture of the invader.

Splashing around in the spray on the rocks at the foot of the falls, over which large quantities of water are pouring, his cries arose above the roar to taunt his would-be captors. The water is deep and one man going beyond his depth in trying to catch the slippery animal narrowly escaped drowning.

The sea lion belongs to a museum located near the falls.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 30.—The stock market opened moderately active and firm.

11 a. m.—Considering the large amount of stocks sold for short accounts and rather heavy realizations on the part of bull speculators the market held remarkably well during the first hour.

Traders agreed that the selling movement was based on the prediction that the dividend on Illinois Central would be reduced 5 per cent at a meeting of the directors today. It was said there were large stop orders in steel at 59 and efforts were made to put the stock down to that figure so that the stops might be caught. Buying around 59½, however, was very sturdy.

Noon—The market was active.

2 p. m.—The market reacted in the early afternoon.

Chicago Grain Review.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The action in the corn pit held all the interest of grain traders today. At the outset there was a repetition of the excited buying that featured yesterday's trading and prices jumped 7-8c, the bulls clamoring that the heat wave was doing tremendous damage to the western crop.

On the advance offerings were unloaded freely, giving rise to the opinion that the crop damage had been greatly exaggerated for trading purposes and prices quickly dropped to the levels of yesterday's close. Predictions of rain over the corn belt tomorrow had something to do with the decline. Bull leaders insisted today that a continuance of the present heat wave for the rest of the week would mean 70 cent corn.

Wheat started firm but weather reports everywhere were favorable, and there was a let up in the export demand that caused prices to ease off 3-4c below yesterday's close.

Oats was firm and higher at the outset with corn, but dropped 1-4c under yesterday's close when the bottom fell out of the corn market.

Provisions ruled easier with a weak hog market.

Wheat continued to decline in the afternoon, the other grains holding at about noon prices. The grain list closed at about low figures for the day.

Provisions continued weak in the afternoon.

Evidently Knew His Townsmen.

A somewhat personal reference was that of an old Lanarkshire minister who read out for his text the verse in the psalms, "I said in my haste, 'all men are liars;'" and then proceeded to give his sermon in the form of an apostrophe, thus: "Ay, David, ye said it in your haste, did ye? If ye had lived in this parish, ye might have said it at your leisure."

Novel Method of Defense.

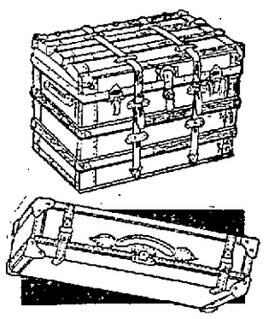

An English engineer proposes to defend his country in event of war by suspending bombs from balloons, which could be exploded from the ground when approached by a hostile dirigible or aeroplane.

Watching The Scoreboard

The Giants evened up the score for those defeats in New York by trouncing the Cardinals twice. Demaree and Fromme allowed but ten hits between them for the two games. Demaree drove in the only run of his game with a sacrifice fly.

The old war horse, Mordecai Brown and Johnny Kling were the real factors in the downfall of the Dodgers. Brown came to the rescue of Johnson in the eighth inning and while he held Brooklyn safe, Kling singled, scoring two men. Kling totalled three hits in four times at the bat. One was a double.

The Phillies are picking up again. Their victory over Pittsburg yesterday made it three out of four for the Pirate series.

The Boston Braves are trailing after Brooklyn for the leadership of the second division. They gained a full game yesterday by hammering Overall and Richie for twelve hits, and trouncing the Cubs.

Just to prove that they have broken the Yankee Jinx, the Naps beat them twice. Chance had 19 men left on bases during the two games. Joe Jackson was reasonably active, getting a home run, one double and two singles, stole two bases and scored four runs.

The Red Sox beat Chicago twice with a total of 13 hits for the two games against 12 for the White Sox. The first was a shutout. Foster pitching a four hit game.

Not taking any chances with the weather, the Athletics jumped in and shiuout the Tigers and rain stopped the second game in the third inning. Every man in the Athletic lineup with the exception of Pitcher Brown hit safely.

Engel of Washington beat the St. Louis Browns for the second time in four days, holding them to three hits.

GIRL CHAMPION FAILS IN DIFFICULT SWIM

Miss Rose Pitonoff

Miss Rose Pitonoff, the beautiful champion woman swimmer, was forced to give up her attempt to go from the Battery to Sandy Hook after battling continuously with the tide and choppy water in North river.

An Ohio man prefers to be broke rather than bankrupt. Some people will doubtless consider him a man of strange and extravagant whims.

At Play Grounds

SOUTH SIDE—SENIORS

Colts, 11; Regulars, 7

In a game replete with errors and misplays the Colts won their first game of the season when they defeated the Regulars by a score of 11 to 7. The game was interesting throughout, but the Regulars, the new team in the league, give evidence that they are a strong bunch. The feature of the game was a catch of a long fly by Hanson, left fielder for tthe Regulars.

Imperials, 10; Regulars, 2

The Imperials won their third straight game when they defeated the Regulars by the score of 10 to 2. The game was on ice for the Imperials from the start and never was their lead threatened. The pitching of Weigle and the hard hitting of the Imperial team were the features.

Pirates, 9; Colts, 0

The Colts forfeited a game to the Pirates by non-appearance on the Hood street grounds.

Cardinals, 7; White Sox, 4

For the second time within a week the Cardinals defeated the White Sox this time the score being 7 to 4. The Cardinal team is the only aggregation in the league which has defeated the Sox and judging from the two past performances, they have the stronger team. Heft of the Cardinals pitched a fine game and although the Sox pounded him for three runs in the last inning, held the opposing team at his mercy. Schnell starred for the Sox by opounding out a home run with one man on base.

Cardinals, 7; Ramblers, 3

The Cardinals continued their winning streak by defeating the Ramblers by the score of 7 to 3 and are now leading the Junior league. This is the second time that the Ramblers have played and if they continue improving at the same rate will be heard from before the season is over.

Hoosiers, 12; Dodgers, 5

The Hoosiers got the scalp of their old rivals last evening when they beat the Dodgers by the score of 12 to 5. The game was snappy and full of sensational plays. The Hoosiers were very successful in connecting with the ball and played tight with men on bases.

MIDGETS

All Stars, 5; Phenoms, 3

The newly organized All Stars continued their wins by defeating the Phenoms of Hood street by the score of 5 to 3. The game was a hard fought one and the result was uncertain until the last man was out. The work of the two pitchers featured.

Badgers, 9; Phenoms, 6

The Badgers won their sixth straight victory by defeating the Phenoms by the score of 9 to 6. The game was close and exciting and was anyone's game until the last inning. Pitcher Denny of the Badgers practically won his own game in the third inning when he made a home run with one man on base.

The All Stars defeated the Runts at Hood street by the score of 18 to 9.

NORTH SIDE—MIDGETS

Champs Lose to "Q" Kids

In a fast game the "Q" Kids defeated the Champs thus making both teams tie now for first place in the Midget league. The same teams will meet again August 5. Score, "Q" Kids, 8; Champs, 3.

Stars Outplay Tigers

The Stars met the Tigers and downed them to the tune of 37 to 14. Although the teams were nearly matched in size, the game was very slow, due to overthrows and poor fielding on both sides. The Stars had a little the better of the argument when it oame to stick work.

Gold Birds Take Two Games

In one of the closest games of the season the Gold Birds by heady playing and a perseverance which was remarkable nosed out the Moore's Colts in the final inning and won by a score of 7 to 6.

They continued their winning streak the following day winning from the Rangers, 21 to 6.

Rubber Mills, 6; Billikens, 1

The Rubber Mills had no trouble with the Billikens again for everything went as smooth as clock work and the battery was working in great shape. The score stood 6 to 1 at the end of the game.

Moore's Colts Drop Another

The Colts were again defeated by the fast Nelson aggregation in a game which was characterized by fast playing and good team work. Knutson had everything his own way as usual and Clow's work behind the bat was superb. Score, 6 to 1.
